The following is a list of the names of the persons who have been admitted to the office of the Secretary of the Board of Education since the last meeting of the Board. The names are given in alphabetical order, and the date of admission is given in parentheses. The names are given in full, and the date of admission is given in full. The names are given in full, and the date of admission is given in full.

P R E F A C E.

ANGLO-SAXON was spoken by our forefathers in England for more than five hundred years; from it have sprung the greater part of our local and family names, very many of our old, and almost all our provincial words and sayings, and fifteen twentieths of what we daily think, and speak, and write. No Englishman therefore altogether ignorant of Anglo-Saxon can have a thorough knowledge of his own mother-tongue, while the language itself, to say nothing of the many valuable and interesting works preserved in it, may in copiousness of words, strength of expression, and grammatical precision, vie with modern German.*

The present object is to furnish the learner, if it may be, with a cheaper, easier, more comprehensive, and not less trustworthy guide to this tongue than may hitherto have been within his reach.

The first six chapters are mainly abridged from the Grammar of the late Professor Rask of Copenhagen, as edited by Mr. Thorpe, whom the compiler has to thank for leave to make use of his praiseworthy labours, and for obliging answers to queries.

* See Thorpe's Advertisement to Rask's Grammar

Some alterations and additions seemed called for by the progress of the study since the publication of that work, whence its improved cultivation in this country must be dated. Illustrations from the kindred new Teutonic dialects German and Dutch, with some from Greek and Latin, old and provincial English &c. have taken the place of the Scandinavian* references as fitter for the English learner. A view, however narrow and imperfect, of languages more or less nearly akin, can hardly fail, it is hoped, to awaken in the understanding student, a wish to know something more of comparative philology, hitherto so unworthily slighted among ourselves, and so laboriously and skilfully worked out by the Germans.

The hyphen is used throughout to divide the parts of compound words from each other, as also prefixes, and when needful, case-endings and other terminations, from roots; in this as in other tongues, the beginner must accustom himself to parse not only every word in a phrase, but every syllable in a word.

Some rules for gender have been attempted, and a list of exceptions to the general rule of its agreement with the German, together with comparative tables of the cardinal numbers, and of the chief tenses, are added.

The accent, sometimes misplaced or left out by Rask, and too often altogether neglected by others, has been carefully attended to.

* Some acquaintance with Icelandic and the other old northern tongues, above all Gothic, which shows the originals of the A. S. inflections, quantity &c., is of course needful for a perfect knowledge of Anglo-Saxon.

The Syntax is in great part new; the examples mostly gathered from the compiler's own reading.

The Extracts in prose and verse are fitted by explanatory notes for use without a dictionary; an analysis of the narrative verse, partly shortened from Rask, and a literal version of the poetry, are also given. The purpose here being to teach pure Anglo-Saxon only, the selections are all from writers of a good age; one well grounded in the language in its perfect state, will not find it hard to bring down his knowledge of his native tongue, through Semi-Saxon, and old and middle English, to our own time.

The Appendix contains lists of words likely to be confounded by learners, together with a number of additional notes. For the length to which the latter have run some apology may be needed, but it seemed best not to lose the opportunity of bringing in, however irregularly, some matter which may be useful.

To Mr. J. M. Kemble, Editor of Beowulf &c., who shares with Mr. Thorpe the honour of making his countrymen independent of foreigners for a right knowledge of their old national language and literature, sincere thanks are due for much very kind, and most valuable help and advice touching the accent, gender, and other hard and weighty points, on which opinions from such an authority cannot be too highly prized. Obliging hints, and the loan of scarce books from other quarters, must also be thankfully acknowledged.

The compiler, feeling what scanty justice has been done to these various and welcome aids, must add that for those faults both of doing, and of leaving undone, which he cannot hope to have avoided, he alone has to answer. Should this imperfect attempt however, by making the speech of the Anglo-Saxons somewhat easier and more attractive than heretofore to their children, give any of these a better knowledge of the real structure, and true spirit, and a greater love for the power and worth of that tongue, which bids fair one day to overspread the whole earth, some time and labour will not have been spent in vain.

GUIDE

TO THE

ANGLO-SAXON TONGUE.

CHAPTER I.

SECT. I.—The Alphabet, &c.

The A. S. letters are 24, viz.

A a [A]	N n
Æ æ [Æ]	O o
B b	P p
C c [C]	R r [r]
D d [ð]	S s [s]
E e [e]	T t [t]
F f [f]	U u
G g [L ʒ]	W w [ʍ ʍʍ]
H h [h ʰ]	X x
I i	Y y
M m [m]	ð ð

The characters between brackets were written by the Anglo-Saxons, but being for the most part mere corruptions of the Roman forms are now seldom printed.

In later times k was used for c ; v and z occur in foreign names only. The abbreviations ȝ for and, þ for þæt, the, that, and others were in use ; in general - shows that m or n is left out.

II.—Accent.

The accent (') over a vowel shows it to be long. The A. S. accented vowels are mostly long by nature ; as, lár lore (G. lehre), báer bier (G. bahre), grén green (G. grün), wíd wide (G. weit), g ó d good (G. gut), r ú m room, space (G. raum), f ý r fire (G. feuer). Some have become long by contraction, g, h, ng, or n, being left out ; as, smeagan, smeán to consider, sleahan, sleán to slay, gangan, gán to go, fangan, fón to take : in fíf five, tóđ tooth, múđ mouth, and the like, the kindred tongues show the omitted n ; as, πεντε, L. quinque, G. fünf ; ὀ-δους, ὀ-δοντ-ος, L. dens,⁽¹⁾ G. zahn ; G. mund : a few from the omission of a vowel ; as, tae, tá toe. From the examples above and below, it will be seen that in English a long or double vowel, and in German a long or double vowel, or diphthong, commonly answers to an A. S. long or accented vowel, while short vowels in general correspond in like manner. The accent serves at the same time, though never used for that purpose merely, to distinguish many words of like spelling but different meaning and sound ; as, ac but, ác oak ; mæst mast, mæst most ; wende turned, went, wénde weened ; is is, ís ice ; for for, fór journey ; ful full, fúl foul; h yrde herd, keeper, hýrde heard.⁽²⁾ Without due attention therefore to the accent, A. S. cannot be rightly written, pronounced, nor understood.⁽³⁾

(¹) In A. S. as in Greek, ns does not occur in the same syllable.

III.—Pronunciation.

The pronunciation is as follows:—

a has the sound of our a in ah; F. &c. short a.

á is longer and broader, like G. &c. long a, approaching our au and aw.

au and aw sound nearly like ow in now, but more open, like G. and Italian au.

æ is pronounced like a in glad.

æ nearly as a in dare; G. eh; F. close é.

e sounds like e in send, rather, when thus placed; before a consonant followed by a vowel it resembles the ea in bear, but is shorter, like F. open è. Before a or o it sounds as y; at the end of a syllable it is very lightly sounded, like the F. unaccented e, or the G. e final.

é is pronounced like æ.

i and y answer to i in dim.

i before another vowel to y.

í an dý to ee in deem.

o to short o in not; F. open o.

ó to long o in note; F. close ó.

ow is sounded as ow in now.

(²) Comp. G. mast, meist; wandte, wáhnte; ist, eis; für, fuhr; voll, faul; hirt, hörte.

(³) The more advanced student will find comparison with the Gothic and other ancient dialects the only sure guide to the A. S. quantity.

u as u in full.

ú as oo in fool.

The consonants are pronounced as in English, with the following exceptions:—

c is always hard like k; cw stands for qu, which was however used in later times.

f between two vowels, or at the end of a syllable, sounds like v.

g is never soft; when placed however between two of the vowels æ, e, i, or y, or at the beginning of a syllable before e or i, followed by another vowel, it has the sound of y.⁽¹⁾ cg is usually written for gg.

h is always strongly aspirated; at the end of a syllable or before a hard consonant it is guttural, like the G. ch, the S. ch in loch, and the Irish gh in lough.

hw answers to our wh; h occurs also before l, n and r.

w sometimes, as in E., stands before r; likewise before l.

þ (tha) is our hard th, as in thing.

ð (eth) our soft th, as in other.

þ usually begins, ð ends a syllable, but they were and are often confounded.

IV.—Spelling.

The A. S. spelling was very variable; the following are the commonest changes:—

¹ It is likely that g before e or i, and (like h) at the end of a syllable, was guttural, as it often is in German, and always in Dutch.

á — æ and æ — á; þám, þæm; þære, þære.

a — ea; waldan, wealdan to wield, rule.

a — o and o — a; man, mon⁽²⁾ man; on, an on.

ea — e and e — a; ceaster, cester⁽³⁾ town; feala, feala many; eá — é; teáh, téh drew.

i — y, eo; hit, hyt it: him, heom them.

í — ý, íe, eó; hí, hý, hie, heó they.

eo — u, y, e; sweord, swurd sword; seolf, sylf, self self.

eó — ú, ý; sweótol, swútol, swýtol manifest.

g — h; sorg, sorh care, sorrow.

ng, nc, nge; sang, sanc, sange song: n and g are often transposed, &c.; þegen, þegn, þeng, þen servant, thane: g is sometimes added or cast off at the end of a word; as, hwý, hwýg why? hefig, hefi heavy: it is often left out before d or ð; mægden, mæden maiden, mægð, mæð tribe.

cs, sc, hs, x; ácsian, áscian, áhsian, áxian to ask (ax).⁽⁴⁾

V.—Change of Letters.

Other changes of letters take place in inflection and derivation; the German synonyms often undergo the like, the English sometimes.

a is changed into æ, and vice versá; grafan to grave, (G. graben); þú græfst thou gravest, (G. du gräbst);

⁽²⁾ P. mon for man, lang for long, and the like.

⁽³⁾ L. castra; hence Chester, -cester, &c. in local names.

⁽⁴⁾ See also nouns II. 2., and irregular comparison.

bæð bath, (G. bad); baðu baths (G. bäder.)⁽¹⁾

a into e; man, man (G. mann); men⁽²⁾ men (G. männer).

á into æ; hál hale, whole, ge-hælan to heal.

ea into e or y; neah nigh, nehst nyhst nighest, next.

e, o, eo, u into i or y; ren rain, rinan to rain; storm storm (G. Sturm); styrman to storm (G. stürmen); weorc work (G. werk), wyrcan to work (G. wirken); hunger hunger, hyngrian to hunger.

eá, eó, ú, into ý; leás lose, (G. los); a-lýsan to re-lease (G. er-lösen); neód need (G. noth); nýðan to force (G. nöthigen); scrúd shroud, scrýðan to shroud.

ó into é; dóm doom, déman to deem, doom.

bb into f; a-hebban to exalt, a-hafen exalted⁽⁴⁾.

c and cc into h; sécan to seek, ic sóhte I sought; feccan to fetch, (ge-)freht fretcht⁽⁵⁾.

g into h and vice versa; wrígan to cover, ic wráh I covered; beorh mountain, plur. beorgas⁽⁶⁾.

s into r⁽⁷⁾; freósan to freeze, (ge-)frozen frozen.

ð into d⁽⁸⁾; sníðan to cut (G. schneiden), sniden cut (G. ge-schnitten).

Several other changes take place in the formation of imperfects I. 3. and complex; likewise in nouns II. 2., III. 1. 3. and in adjectives.

VI.—Correspondence of Letters.

Attention to the correspondence of A. S. with English and German letters helps not only to recognise words already known in a kindred tongue, but to settle their derivation, spelling, and quantity. Thus—á answers to E. long o; G. ei, l. e; bân⁽⁹⁾ bone, G. bein; máre⁽¹⁰⁾ more, greater, G. mehr.

eá to E. l. e; G. l. o, a, au: streám stream, G. strom; sceáp sheep, G. schaf; ge-leáfa be-lief, G. g-laube.

ea to E. short a, l. o; G. s. a: scearp sharp, G. scharf; ceald cold, G. kalt.

æ to E. and G. a, e: gæst guest, G. gast; fæst fast, G. fest.

æ to E. l. e, a, o; G. l. a, ei: sæd seed, G. saat; hær hair, G. haar; mæst⁽¹¹⁾ most, G. meist.

(9) S. bane.

(10) S. mair.

(11) S. maist.

ý to E. l. i, e; G. l. eu, au, ö: fýr fire, G. feuer; brýd bride, G. braut; hýran to hear, G. hören.

c (before a soft vowel) to E. and G. ch, k: cyle chill, G. kühle; stician to stick, G. stechen.

r and s are often transposed: forst frost, G. frost: bridd (young) bird; flacse flask, G. flasche.

CHAPTER II.

I.—Nouns. Gender.

The genders, as in Greek, Latin, German, &c. are three, viz. neuter, masculine, feminine; the first two, as in those tongues, closely resembling each other, the last differing widely from both. A. S. nouns in general agree in gender with the corresponding German; as,

Neuter: { wíf G. weib woman, wife.
 { cild G. kind child.

Masculine: mona G. mond moon.

Feminine: sunne G. sonne sun.

The chief exceptions are:—

Neut. eár G. ähre (f.) ear of corn.

— fæsten G. feste (f.) fastness.

— fyðer G. feder (f.) feather, wing.

Neut. mód	G. muth	(m.) mind, mood.
— twig	G. zweig	(m.) twig.
— wæpen	G. waffe	(f.) weapon.
— wésten	G. wüste	(f.) waste, desert.
— wín ⁽¹⁾	G. wein	(m.) wine.
Masc. cræft	G. kraft	(f.) power, craft, art.
— ende	G. ende	(n.) end.
— feld	G. feld	(n.) field.
— here	G. heer	(n.) army.
— lust	G. lust	(f.) lust, pleasure.
— mere ⁽²⁾	G. meer	(n.) mere, lake, sea.
Fem. bók	G. buch	(n.) book.
— hælu ⁽³⁾	G. heil	(m.) health, salvation.
— heorte ⁽⁴⁾	G. herz	(n.) heart.
— ge-sýhđ	G. ge-sicht	(n.) sight.
— turf	G. torf	(n.) turf.
— wiht	G. wicht	(m.) wight, being.

Moreover, all A. S. nouns ending in -dóm, -hád, and -scipe are masculine, while G. nouns in -thum are some neuter, some masculine, in -heit and -schaft feminine; A. S. in -nes (-nys, -nis) feminine, G. in -niss some neuter, some feminine.

Some words are of more than one gender; thus flód⁽⁵⁾ flood is neut. (II. 1.) and masc. (II. 2.); sáe sea masc. (II. 2.) and fem. (I. 3.); bend band, bond masc. (II. 2.) and fem. (II. 3.); lác gift, office, &c. all three (II. 1. 2. 3.), but oftenest neuter.

⁽³⁾ L. sal-us, fem.

⁽⁴⁾ Καρδ-ια fem. L. cor, neut.

⁽⁵⁾ G. fluth fem.; see masc. and fem.; band neut. and masc.

FURTHER RULES FOR GENDER.

I. Nouns ending in -tl, -ed, -inle, and diminutives in -en; likewise all having the nominative and accusative alike in both numbers are neuter.

II. Nouns in -a, -m, -ls, -ađ, -ođ, -e (from verbs) and -ling; likewise all forming the genitive singular in -a, or the nominative plural in -as are masculine.

III. Nouns in -æđ, -uđ, -đ (after a consonant) -eo, -u (of quality from adjectives) -e (from adjectives) -ung, and -leást are feminine.

IV. The gender of compound words depends on that of the last part; thus wíf-man woman is masculine. ⁽¹⁾

II.—Declension.

Nouns are divided into two Orders, the Simple and the Complex; ⁽²⁾ the former having one Declension of three Classes for the three Genders, the latter two Declensions of three Classes each ⁽³⁾.

The Simple Order, answering to the Greek and Latin pure nouns, contains those ending in an essential vowel; viz. -e in the neuter, -a in the masculine, and -e in the feminine. The Complex Order, answering to the Gr. and L. impure nouns, comprises all ending in a consonant, together with some in an unessential -e or -u.

⁽²⁾ In Grimm's system Simple Nouns are called weak; Complex, strong.

⁽³⁾ For the grounds of this division, see Rask's Grammar, pp. 26—30.

RULES FOR DECLENSION.

I. All Nouns have the nominative and accusative alike in the plural.

II. All Nouns form the ablative and dative plural in -um, often changed to -on, and sometimes again to -an.

III. The ablative and dative are always alike in each number.

IV. Neuters, as in Greek, Latin, and German, have the nominative and accusative alike in each number.

V. Feminines vary the nominative and accusative singular; but form the ablative, dative, and genitive singular alike.

VI. The Simple Order forms its genitive plural in -ena, the Complex in -a. ⁽¹⁾

III.—Simple Order, or Declension I.

The First Declension contains a few neuters ending in -e, all masculines in -a, and all feminines in -e; the nominative plural is formed in -an ⁽²⁾. The three Classes are so much alike that they may be shown at one view.

⁽¹⁾ Participial nouns form it in -ra (see II. 2.) like indefinite adjectives. Complex feminines (II. 3. and III. 3.) sometimes have a Simple gen. plural.

⁽²⁾ G. nouns forming their plur. in -en (-n) are Simple, all others Complex.

Examples—eáge eye, steorra star, tunge tongue.

Also some contracted nouns; as, freá lord (masc.) tá toe, beó⁽³⁾ bee (fem.), making freán &c. plural tán, táum, taena; beón, beóna &c. Æ' law, sá seu⁽⁴⁾, and eá river (likewise fem.) are indeclinable, except sometimes gen. eás⁽⁵⁾, nom. plural eán.

⁽²⁾ Manna man and heofone heaven are much less common than man III. 2. and heofon II. 2.

⁽³⁾ G. zehe, biene, not contracted.

⁽⁴⁾ Sá is also declinable, as II. 2.

⁽⁵⁾ All A. S. nouns originally formed the genitive in -s; see p. 70, n. 4.

IV.—Complex Order. Declension II.

CLASS I.

The Second Declension, first Class, contains many neuters ending in one or more consonants.

Examples—leáf leaf, word word.

V.—CLASS II.

The Second Declension, second Class, comprises all regular masculines ending in a consonant, all complex ones in -e, and a few in -u (-o); the plural is formed in -as; some monosyllables change æ to a in the plural.

(1) Hence deer—"Rats and mice, and such small deer."

(2) Comp. L. pec-us, pec-unia; our fee is money only, G. vieh cattle only.

Examples—dæl part, deal, ende end, dæg day.

(²) Comp. G. stab, stäbe; &c. G. buch-stab is letter.

Fæder father is seldom varied in the singular, and never contracted. Nouns in -h, and -u (-o), change them to g and w; as, beáh ring, beáge, beáges &c.; bealu bale, injury, bealwe, and the like: a few drop the -h; as, feorh life, feore &c. Those in -sc often take x (cs) in the plural; as, fisc fish, fixas &c.; sometimes throughout; fix, fixe &c.

VI.—CLASS III.

The Second Declension, third Class, contains all regular feminines ending in a consonant; the plural is formed in -a.

Examples—stefen (stefn) voice, spráec speech.

Dissyllables in -el (-ol), -en, -er (-or), are contracted in the oblique cases, and often in all; as, sáwl, wyln, frófr. A single final consonant after a short vowel is doubled; as syn sin, accus. &c. synne. The gen. plur. is sometimes in -ena. Nouns in -ung sometimes form the abl. and dat. in -a. Hand hand, makes accus. hand, abl. and dat. handa. Miht might, tíd time, tide, woruld world, have the accus. like the nom.; woruld sometimes makes gen. worldes.⁽¹⁾ Niht night, and wiht wight remain unchanged in the accus. singular, and nom. plural.

VII.—Declension III.

CLASS I.

The Third Declension, first Class, contains all complex neuters in -e, all in -u, all neuter dissyllables in er (-or), el (-ol), and -en, some in ed (-od), and many monosyllables in a consonant. The plural is in -u (-o), often changed to -a; some monosyllables change æ, and a few ea, into a in the plural.

Dissyllables are mostly contracted; thus, heáfod head, tácen token, wunder wonder, make heáfde, heáfdes &c. tácne, wundre &c.; nýten beast, neat, weofod altar, &c. are usually not. Those in -en sometimes double the n in the oblique cases; as, wésten desert, wéstenne &c. Cild child, cealf calf, and æg egg, form their plural cildru (-a)⁽³⁾, cealfru, ægru; the first however often has cild or cilde. þýstru darkness, lendenu loins, &c. have no singular. Nouns in -u take w, and are usually contracted, forming the plural in -a; as, searu array, ambush, searwe, searwes; plur. searwa &c.

VIII.—CLASS II.

The Third Declension, second Class, comprises masculines in -u (-o), forming their plural in -a, some irregulars (masc. and fem.) in -er (-or), changing their vowel in the ablative and dative, and making -u (-o, -a) in the plural, a few (masc.) changing their vowel as above, and in the nominative and accusative plural, &c.

Leóde (G. leute) people, Dene Danes, Engle Angles, Englishmen, and a few more in -e with no singular, make leódum, leóda, &c.

IX.—CLASS III.

The Third Declension, third Class, contains all feminines ending in -u or -o, also some irregulars which change their vowel, &c. The former sometimes make the genitive plural in -ena.

Examples—denu vale, bóc book, burh burgn, town.

Like denu are declined lufu love, gifu gift, grace, snóru daughter-in-law, caru care, lagu water, &c. Mænigeo (-u) many, multitude, ylde age, eld, brædo breadth, and some others in-o are indeclinable, except abl. and dat. plur. mænigum. Duru door makes abl. and dat. sing. dura. Collectives in -waru, as burh-waru town's-folk, form plur. -ware, gen. -wara or -warena. Mús mouse, lús louse, cú cow, gós goose, bróc breeches, follow bóc, making plur. mýs mice, lýs lice, cý kye, gés⁽¹⁾ geese, bréc. Cú sometimes has gen. sing. cús,⁽²⁾ gen. plur. cúna. Turf turf, and furh furrow, follow burh, making tyrf, &c.

CHAPTER III.

I.—Adjectives

As in German &c. have a Definite and an Indefinite inflection: the former is used when the adjective is preceded by the definite article, by any other demonstrative, or by a possessive pronoun; the latter always else. There are three Declensions, one for the Definite form, agreeing closely with the Simple Order, two for the Indefinite, answering, though not so exactly, to the Complex Order of Nouns.

II.—Definite Declension.

This declension is used for all adjectives, participles, and pronouns in general; participles present however take -ra instead of -ena in the genitive plural. Monosyllables commonly change æ to a throughout; as, smæl small, þæt smale, se smala, seó smale the small, and so on. Adjectives in -h, as heáh high, usually change it to g when the case-ending is a vowel, as, þæt heág-e, &c.; otherwise the h is dropt; as, abl. &c. heán. Those in -u (-o), as near-u narrow, take w throughout; as, þæt near-we, &c.⁽⁴⁾

Thus are declined adjectives ending in -e, -el (-ol), -isc, and -wís; likewise most monosyllables, all participles present, participles past of the Simple Order, superlatives and pronouns; as, wyrð-e worth, worthy, dýg-el dark, sprec-ol talkative, menn-isc human, ge-wís sure, sóð true, sooth, leóht light, heard hard, seóc sick, wrec wretched, fæst fast, &c.

Those in -e drop it when a syllable of inflection is * added; wyrð-ne, wyrð-um, wyrð-re, &c.

Adjectives in -h and -u follow the rules given above; accus. masc. heá-nne, nearo-ne; abl. &c. fem. heá-re, near-we or near-e; gen. plur. heá-ra, near-wa or near-a.

Thus are declined monosyllables with æ (except fæst) &c., most adjectives with derived endings, and participles past of the Complex Order; some of both the latter, however, follow Declension I. As, læt late, slow, swær heavy, glæd glad, bær bare, swæ's sweet, dear, til good, eád-ig blessed, prosperous, fær-lic sudden, dangerous, ge-sib-sum peaceable, mæg-er meagre, hlutt-or clear, fæg-en glad, fain. Some dissyllables are contracted in certain forms, as, hál-ig holy, hál-ge, hál-ges, &c., but gen. plur. hál-igra and the like.

(1) Comp. Nouns III. 1, 3.

V.—Comparison.

The Comparative and Superlative Degrees are regularly formed by adding -or and -ost⁽¹⁾, (E. and G. -er and -est), to the indefinite form; as, leóf, leóf-or, leóf-ost dear, dear-er, dear-est (G. lieb, lieb-er, lieb-est): æ usually becomes a; as, smæl, smal-or, smal-ost, small, small-er, small-est. (G. schmal, schmal-er, schmal-est) The ending -or is however only adverbial; as an adjective the Comparative is formed in -re, -ra, -re, whether used definitely or indefinitely; as, (þæt) leóf-re, (se) leóf-ra, (seó) leóf-re (the dearer); (G. das &c. lieb-re) (þæt) smæl-re &c. (the smaller); (G. das &c. schmal-re). The Superlative has both the definite and indefinite inflections, the former in -ost, or -est, (also the adverbial form), the latter in -oste, -osta, -oste, or -este &c.; as, leóf-ost dearest, þæt leóf-oste, or leóf-este &c. the dearest; (G. das &c. lieb-ste.)

The following adjectives are irregularly compared; the change of a into e; æ into a; eá into ý, or é; ea, eo, u, into y, answers to that of the German a into ä, o into ö, u into ü: in English but few traces of this remain. Meh, mec (L. mihi, G. mich) and þeh, þec (G. dich) sometimes occur for me and þe: likewise the poetical úsih, úsic, and eówih, eówic for ús and eów; and uncit and incit, for unc and inc.

There being, as in English, no reflective pronoun, the personals are used instead; as, ic me reste I rest me (myself); þa þeówas wyrmdon híg, the servants were warming them (-selves). Sylf self, same, declined as an adjective both definitely and indefinitely (I.), and agreeing with the pronoun or noun, gives a strong reflective sense; as, ic sylf or sylfa I myself; fram me sylfum of myself; þú sylf thou thyself; we sylfe we ourselves, &c.; seó sylfe tíð the same time.⁽²⁾ Sometimes the pronoun stands in the dative before sylf; as, (ic) me sylf I myself; him-sylf he himself.⁽³⁾

⁽³⁾ Like F. moi-même, lui-même, hence seemingly my-self, thy-self, &c.: self is properly no more a noun than αὐτός, L. ipse, or F. même.

II.—Possessives.

The Possessive Pronouns are formed, as in German, from the genitives of the two first persons; as, mín (G. mein) mine, my; þín (G. dein) thine, thy; uncer, úre (G. unser) our; incer, eówer (G. euer) your: like other Pronouns in general, they are declined as indefinite adjectives I. Those in -er are usually contracted; as uncre, eówres, and the like. U're forms úrum, úres, &c; but remains unchanged in the whole feminine singular. The poetical úser (ússer) for úre is thus declined:—

A. & D. ússum
G.	ússes	ússe
PLURAL.
N. & A. ússe, úser
A. & D. ússum
G. ússa.

The genitive of the third person is used unchanged; his, its, his, hire her, hira their. To make these reflective, the genitive of sylf agreeing with the pronoun, or the indefinite adjective ágen own, agreeing with the noun, must be used; as, þín sylfes bearn thine own son; tó his ágenre þearfe to his own need. Sínn occurs in poetry as a possessive of the third person; not however like G. sein, for L. ejus, but for L. suus only.

III.—Demonstratives.

The Demonstrative Pronouns are þæt, se, seó that, likewise the relative which, who, that, and the article the; (1) and þis, þes, þeós this.

þæne, þám, þære, þára, are sometimes used for þone, þám, þære, þára; likewise þæs for þás; the s in þise, &c. is often doubled; þissere and þissera occur also for þisse and þissa. The indeclinable þe is used for all cases of þæt, se, seó, as a relative; combined with it it forms þæt-te (4) that which, se-þe he that, seó-þe she that. þæt, se, seó is sometimes repeated in a sentence, standing first as a demonstrative, and next as a relative; but þe commonly stands as

(1) Comp. the threefold use of G. das, der, die.

(2) Comp. ro, ó, ð, rov, ra, roi, rai; G. das, den, dem, der, des, &c. D. dat, &c. From seó comes she (G. sie); from þa they, þám them, þára their.

(3) Comp. G. dies, &c.; þás and þás have become those and these.

(4) Þætte is also that (conjunction) G. dass.

relative in the second place; as, þæt micle ge-teld þe Moises worhte, the great tent that Moses made.

þe is sometimes used along with hit, &c. as a relative; as, þe þurh hine through whom.

Swá is sometimes used (like G. so) as an indeclinable relative.

Ylc same, follows the indefinite declension.

Swylc such, is often repeated, standing in the second place adverbially; as, Ælc þing on-gitan swylc swylce hit is to understand each thing so as it is.

IV.—Interrogatives.

The Interrogative Pronouns are hwæt, hwá? what? who? hwylc? which? hwæðer whether? which? The first has no plural, and is thus declined:

Neuter.	Masc. & Fem.
Nom. hwæt	hwá
Acc. hwæt	hwone (hwæne)
Abl. hwý
Dat. hwám (hwáem)
Gen. hwæs ⁽⁵⁾

It answers to L. quis not qui, and is never used as a relative: with a neuter adjective it governs the genitive; as, hwæt yfeles? what evil? it is also (like G. et-was, was) used not interrogatively, for somewhat, a little; as, hwæt lytles some little.

⁽⁵⁾ From hwám and hwæs, are whom and whose.

V.—Indefinites.

The Indefinite pronouns are swá-hwæt(-swá) what-so-ever, swá-hwá (-swá) who-so-ever, swá-hwylc (-swá) which-so-ever, æg-hwæt (ge-hwæt), æg-hwylc, &c. whatsoever, &c. which follow the declension of the chief word in the compound. Others are ælc, each, every one, eall all, ænig any, nænig none whatever, án-lipig (æn-lipig) single, alone, &c. Ge-noh enough is sometimes indeclinable. A'n one, a, and sum some, a, a certain, serve for the indefinite article, which is however often not expressed : sum placed after a genitive cardinal number implies one above it ; as, fíf-tyna sum one of sixteen, one with fifteen others. Manig (mænig) many sometimes has nom. and accus. plur. manega. Fela much, many is indeclinable : feáwa (feá) few, sometimes has abl. and dat. plur. feáwum, gen. feára ; both often govern a genitive plural ; as, mádma fela many treasures ; feá worda few words. Man (man) is used (like G. man, and F. on) (¹) indefinitely for one, they ; as, Me man sægde they told me (G. man sagte mir). From wiht (wuht) creature, being, (wight, whit) are formed á-wiht (á-wuht) contracted to áwht, áht anything, ought ; and nán-wiht (-wuht) n á w h t, n á h t (²) nothing, nought. Other indefinite Pronouns are ó ð e r (-or) other, second (L. alius, and alter for secundus), á w ð e r, á ð e r one of two (L. alter duorum), n á w ð e r (n á ð o r), neither of two (L. neuter), æ g ð e r either, each of two. O'd e r forms its oblique cases fem. sing. ó đ r e ; it sometimes follows indefinite Decl. II.

		hund-twelftig	120
duizend	púsend	thousand	tausend.

A'n, like all other pronouns, follows indef. Decl. I., sometimes making accus. masc. áenne; thus too nán none. Used definitely, áne, ána, áne, and standing after its noun, &c., it means alone. Twá (²) and þreo are thus declined:—

	Neut.	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.	Masc.	Fem.
N. & A.	twá (tú)	twegen (³)	twá.	þreo	þrý	þreo
	A. & D. twám (twæm)			þrym
	G. twegra (twega)			þreora.

Bá, begen, bá both, follows twá; prefixed to twá it forms bá-twá (bú-tú) (⁴) which is indeclinable. The numbers fewer to twelf inclusive, when used absolutely, have a nom. in -e, &c.; as, ealle seofone all seven; án of þám twelfum one of the twelve; án

(¹) The t- is probably a remnant of the prefix hond- retained before the vowel.

(²) S. twa. G. zwei, zwo.

(³) Twain. G. zween.

(⁴) Hence both, G. beide; comp. Italian ambe-due.

þissa fífa one of these five. Those above eahta usually govern a genitive. Twentig and the others in -tig make abl. and dat. -tigum, gen. -tigra. Hund prefixed to the tens after sixtig (answering to -κοῦτ-α, L. -gint-a) is sometimes dropt when hund hundred goes before; as, scipa án hund and eahtatig, of ships one hundred and eighty. Hund (hundred) follows II. 1; hundred and þúsend, III. 1.

Units are placed before tens, as, six and fíftig, six and fifty. In numbers above a hundred, the smaller stands last, and the noun is repeated; as, Hundteontig wintra and seofon and feowertig wintra, a hundred winters and seven and forty winters.⁽⁵⁾

Wintre affixed to numbers forms adjectives denoting age; as, fram twi-wintrum cilde, from the child of two years.

VII.—Ordinal Numbers.

þæt, se, seó óðer	second

hund-nigontigode	ninetieth
hund-teontigode	hundredth
hund-endlufontigode	110th
hund-twelftigode	120th

Units combined with ordinal tens stand first when cardinals, last when ordinals; as, án and þryttigode one and thirtieth; þý twentigodan dæge and þý feorðan dæge Septembris, on the twenty and fourth day of September.

Healf half placed after an ordinal number (like G. halb) reduces it by half; as, óðer-healf (lit. second-half) one and a half, (G. andert-halb); þridde-healf

(lit. third-half) two and a half (G. dritte-halb).⁽¹⁾ A'n, twá, þreo, form án-e once, twi-wa (tu-wa) twice, þry wa thrice; with the other cardinals, and all the ordinals, síð a time is used in the ablative for the same purpose; as, feower, fíf, &c. síðum or síðon four, five, &c. times; (þý) forman, óðre, þryddan, &c. síðe the first, second, third, &c. time.

CHAPTER V.

I.—Verbs. Conjugation.

THERE are two Orders of Verbs, as of Nouns; viz. the Simple and the Complex; ⁽²⁾ the former containing purè or open Verbs answering to the Greek in -αειν, -εειν, and -οειν, and to the Latin in -are, -ēre, and -ire; the latter impure or close Verbs, answering to the Greek regulars, and to the Latin in -ĕre, &c.⁽³⁾ The Simple Order forms its imperfect by adding -ode (-ede), -de, or -te to the root; the participle past by adding -od (-ed), -d, or -t: in the Complex the imperfect becomes monosyllabic and changes its vowel; the participle past ends in -en.⁽⁴⁾ The former is divided into three Classes forming one Conjugation; the latter into two Conjugations of three Classes each.

(2) Simple Verbs are by Grimm termed Weak, Complex Strong.

(3) See Rask's Grammar, pp. 67—70.

(4) E. and G. verbs in general follow the A.S., though complex forms have in each not seldom become simple.

Part. pres.	luf-igende	hýr-ende	tell-ende
P. past (ge-)	luf-od	(ge-) hýr-ed	(ge-) teal-d.

The first form of the present indicative, and of the imperative plural, is used when the pronoun comes first, or is left out; as, we lufiað we love, hýrað hear; the second when the pronoun follows close; as, telle ge tell ye? The subjunctive plural sometimes ends in -an or -en; as, lufian, hýrden, and the like. The gerund, which is always preceded by tó, and seems to be a kind of dative of the infinitive, answers to our infinitive present, active and passive, and to the Latin supines, infinitive future, active and passive, &c.; as, Come þú ús tó for-spillanne? camest thou to destroy us? L. nos perditum. Hwæðer is éðre tó cwedanne? whether is easier to say? L. facilius dictu. Eart þú se-þe tó cumenne eart? art thou he that is (art) to come?

L. qui venturus est. Heó býð tó lufigenne (¹) she is (must be, or ought) to be loved, L. amanda est. The infinitive of the first Class is often formed in -igan, sometimes in -igean, for -ian, and g is put in or left out in some other forms with little or no change of pronunciation. The Gerund of the third Class sometimes makes -enne for -anne. Ge- may be prefixed to any part of verbs in general, but is oftenest used with the imperfect, and especially with the participle past, though not, as in German, to be considered the sign of the latter.(²)

IV.—Class I.

Like lufian are conjugated:

Present.	Imperfect.	Part. past.
hatige	hatode	(ge-)hatod	hate losige	losode	losod	be lost clypige	clypode	clypod	call, clepe

hýrige	hýrode	hýrod	hire hergige	hergode	hergod	harry
macige	macode	macod	make
bletsige	bletsode	bletsod	bless.

(¹) Hence the phrases "house to let," "he is to blame," &c.

(²) Ge- is seldom used before another prefix.

(³) Neut. L. vigilare; act. weccan.

Some verbs of this Class, especially those having e for their vowel, form their imperfect and part. past in -ede and ed, as well as -ode and od; as, herian to praise, seglian to sail, ge-fremian to profit, which make herede, (ge-)hered, or herode, herod; seglede, and the like: -ode and -od are sometimes changed into -ade and -ad. Swerian to swear, borrows some tenses from a complex form, making imperf. swerede or swóre swore; imp. subj. swóre; imper. swera or swere; part. past (ge-)sworen sworn. Folgian, fyligan, or fylian to follow, has imperf. folgode, fyligde, or fylide; imper. folga or fylig.

V.—Class II.

The second Class forms its imperfect and participle past in -de and -ed, or in -te and -t, according to its characteristic letter; the hard consonants, viz. t, p, c, x, requiring -te and -t; the soft, viz. d, ð, f, g, w, l, m, n, r, s, taking -de and -ed; as,

wéne	wénde	wéned	ween(-ed)
lære	lærde	læred	teach
ræse	ræsde	ræsed	rush(-ed).

Some verbs in -gan are contracted; as, þreagan, þreán to vex, reproach, tweógan, tweón to doubt: pres. þreage or þreá, þreást, þreáð; pl. þreagað, þreáð, &c.; tweóge or tweó, tweóst, tweóð, &c.; imperf. þreáde, tweóde; part. past þreáð, tweóð.

The second and third persons singular sometimes make -est, -eð, especially when many consonants might otherwise meet; as, nemne (I name), nemnest, nemneð; imperf. nemde: some have both forms; as, læde, lætst, læt, or lædest, lædeð; part. past læded or læð. Verbs with s, d, and t form the third person in -t; as, ræse, ræst; sende, sent; méte, mét: those with ð in ð, as cýðe, cýð; imperf. cýðde or cýdde; p. past cýðed or cýð. Verbs in this and the following classes with a double characteristic, drop one letter and take -e in the imperative; as, dyppe, dype, and the like. To this class belong several transitives, derived from intransitives of the Complex Order; as, bærnán to burn (act.), from byrnán to burn (neut.); drenčan (¹) to drench, from drinčan to drink; fyllán to fell, from feallan to fall; a-ræran to rear, from a-rísan to arise; sencan to sink (act.), from sincan to sink (neut.); settan to set, from sittan to sit; ærnian to let run, from yrnan to run. Lybban to live, and hycgan to think, borrow some forms from leofian, and hogian: they are thus conjugated:—

Indic. pres. 1. lybbe	Subj. pres. lybbe

Hæbban or habban⁽¹⁾ to have, has some forms as if from hafian: it is thus conjugated:—

Ind. pres. 1. hæbbe (habbe)	Subj. pres. habbe (hæbbe)
2. hæfst (hafast)	plur. habbon

or hafo. Nabban (for nehabban) to have not, has an Indicative, Subjunctive, and Imperative, following habban.

VI.—Class III.

The third Class changes e into ea, é into ó, &c. in the imperfect, forming it in -de or -te, and the part. past in -d or -t by the rules given above. The English synonyms commonly change the vowel in like manner, the German sometimes.

Pres.	Imperf.	Part. past.

séce	sóhte	sóht	seek (sought) bringe ⁽³⁾	bróhte	bróht	bring (brought)
wyrce	worhte	worht	work (wrought)

Secge makes 3 sing. pres. segð or sagað; imper. sege or saga. The impersonal þincan (G. dünken) to seem, must not be confounded with þencan (G. denken) to think. þincan makes 3 sing. pres. þincð (G. dünkt) (me-)thinks; plur. þincað; imperf. þúhte (G. dünkte) (me-)thought; part. past (ge-)þúht.

(²) Also rehte, &c.; réce, róhte is another form.

(³) Comp. G. bringe, brachte, ge-bracht.

þencan makes imperf. þóhte (G. dachte) thought; part. past (ge-)þóht (G. ge-dacht).

A few transitives also from complex intransitives belong to this class; as, a-cwellan to kill (quell), from a-cwelan to perish (quail); lecgan ⁽¹⁾ to lay, from licgan to lie; weccan to awaken, from wacan to wake. Willan ⁽²⁾ to will, and nyllan ⁽³⁾ to will not, are thus conjugated:

VII.—Complex Order.

The Complex Order changes the vowel in the imperfect, as in English and German: the imperfect ends with the characteristic, which however if bb becomes f; if g, h: in the second pers. sing. and in the plural h again becomes g.

(²) Βουλ-εσθαι, L. vell-e, vol-ui; G. woll-en, will, &c. woll-te.

The Second Conjugation changes certain vowels in the second and third persons sing. present as in German. The part. past sometimes changes its vowel, as in English and German.

þearf⁽¹⁾, þearft or þurfe, þurfon; subj. þur
 imp. þorfte; inf. þearfan: need.

XVI.—Auxiliaries, &c.

The A. S. has no future tense, the present serving for both: wille and sceal, like G. will and soll, imply will, duty, and the like, and are not used like will and shall, to form a simple future; the present of beón has commonly a future power. The perfect and pluperfect are formed as in English, German, &c. by means of the verb to have; as, ic hæbbe (ge-)lufod I have loved.⁽²⁾ The participle past being as in the above-named tongues the only true passive form, the passive tenses are formed throughout by the help of the auxiliaries wesan, weorðan, and beón to be; as, present ic eom, or weorðe lufod⁽³⁾ I am loved; imperf. ic wæs, or weorð lufod; perf. ic eom lufod worden I have been loved; pluperf. ic wæs lufod worden I had been loved; future, ic beó lufod I shall be loved.

Impersonal verbs are like those of other languages; as, hit rind it rains; hit ge-limpð it happens. Some have a passive sense; as, a-lýfd it is allowed, lawful (L. licet); ge-wyrð it is agreed, seems good (L. convenit).

(1) G. darf, durfte.

(2) The imperfect is often used for the pluperfect.

(3) Comp. G. ich habe, hatte, werde, wurde, ge-liebt; ich bin, war, geliebt worden.

CHAPTER VI.

I.—Formation of Words. Prefixes.

As in Greek, Latin, German, &c. this branch of the language must be strictly attended to, if we would learn the origin, gender, and inflection of words: it consists of Derivation, and Composition, in both which the A. S. closely resembles the German. Derivation either modifies the meaning of a word by putting before it a prefix, or changes its part of speech, and inflection, by adding a termination. Composition forms new words by joining one or more together.

The following are the chief prefixes:

un- (on-) (L. in-; E. and G. un-): un-scyldig (G. un-schuldig) in-nocent; un-tigian to un-tie.

n- (ne not; L. ne): n-yllan (for newillan; L. n-olle for ne velle) to will not, nill; n-án none.

mis- (E. mis-; G. miss-, misse-): mis-truwian (G. mis-trauen) to mis-trust; mis-dæd (G. misse-that) mis-deed.

wan-⁽⁴⁾ (wana wanting): wan-hál unhealthy.

to-⁽⁵⁾ (L. dis-; G. zer-): to-breca (L. dis-rumpere, G. zer-brechen) to break in pieces; to-drífan (L. dis-pellere, G. zer-treiben) to scatter, drive away.

⁽⁴⁾ Hence O. wan-hope (D. wan-hoop) despair; wan-trust (D. wan-trouw) mis-trust.

⁽⁵⁾ Hence O. to-broken, to-torn &c. The prefix to- must be carefully distinguished from the preposition tó.

for-⁽¹⁾ (L. per-; E. for-; G. ver-): for-beóðan (G. ver-bieten) to for-bid; for-swerian (L. per-jurare) to for-swear; for-gán to for-go; for-bærnan (G. ver-brennen) to burn up, consume; for-gifan (G. ver-geben) to give away, for-give. ✓ wiðer- (wið against; G. wider-): wiðer-saca (G. wider-sacher) adversary.

and- (ἀντι; G. ant-): and-wlíta (G. ant litz) countenance.

ge- (G. ge-; L. com-, con-, co-): has in general a collective sense; as, ge-bróðra (G. ge-brüder) brethren; ge-scý (G. ge-schuhe, F. chaussure) shoes; ge-mæne (G. ge-mein, L. com-mune) common; ge-fera (G. ge-fährte, L. com-es) companion; it forms active verbs from neuters, nouns, &c. as, ge-standan to urge; ge-þencan (G. ge-denken) to think of, remember; ge-strangian to strengthen; ge-leánian to reward; ge-niðerian to degrade, condemn; from standan, þencan, strang, leán (reward), niðer; or gives a figurative sense; as, biddan to ask, beg, ge-biddan to pray. Many words, however, take ge- without any change of meaning; as, seón, ge-seón to see; hýran, ge-hýran to hear, obey; mearc, ge-mearc mark, limit; rúm, ge-rúm wide, roomy.

be- (E. and G. be-) makes neuter verbs active; as, gán to go, be-gán to commit, &c. (G. gehen, be-gehen); feran to go, be-feran to travel over (G. fahren, be-fahren). It is sometimes privative; as, bycgan to buy, be-bycgan to sell; be-heáfdian to be-head: often intensive; as, reáfian to rob, be-reáfian to be-reave (G. rauben, be-rauben); be-gyrdan (G. be-gürten) to be-gird; or otherwise modifies the sense; as, be-healdan to be-hold, be-sprecan (G. be-sprechen) to be-speak.

ed- (again, re-): ed-niwian to re-new.

sin- (simle always, L. semper): sin-grén ever-green.

sam- (L. semi-): sam-cuce⁽²⁾ half-quick, half-dead.

æg- or ge- gives pronouns and adverbs an indeterminate sense; as, æg-hwylc (ge-hwylc) each, every, æg-hwider whithersoever.

II.—Nominal Terminations.

The following are the chief Nominal Terminations, denoting for the most part persons:

-a⁽³⁾: cemp-a warrior, champion; hunt-a hunter; bog-a bow.

-ere: (E. and G. -er; L. -or): reáf-ere (G. räub-er) robb-er; sæd-ere (L. sat-or) sow-er.)

-end (from the part. pres.): Hæl-end (G. Heil-and) Saviour, healer; weald-end ruler.)

IV.—Verbal Terminations.

-ian (-igan, -igean) forms verbs (I. 1.) from nouns, adjectives, and particles; as, cear-ian to care, ge-hýrsumian to obey, wiðer-ian to oppose; from cearu care, ge-hýrsum obedient, wiðer against.

C, g, n, or s, sometimes stands before -ian; as, gear-c-ian to prepare, syn-g-ian to sin, wít-n-ian to punish, mæ-r-s-ian to magnify; from gearu ready, yare, syn sin, wíte punishment, mære great, famous.

After c and g, e is not seldom inserted; as, ráec-ean, þicg-ean, for ráec-an to reach, þicg-an to touch, taste, &c.

Other verbs in general form the infinitive in -an.

V.—Particles.

Adverbs, prepositions, and conjunctions, are either primitive words, that is, not to be further resolved in the language treated of, or are formed from nouns (often obsolete), adjectives, &c. governed by a preposition expressed or understood. Of the former kind are nú now, geó (iú), formerly, eft again, get (iet), yet, be by, &c. for for, tó to, ac but, gif if, &c. Of the latter kind, (to take the cases in order) are the accusatives on-weg (a-weg) a-way; on-bæc (under-, ofer-bæc) a-back, back; (on-)ge-mang a-mong; on-gean (a-gen) a-gain, a-against; ealne-weg al-way.

-e (abl. or dat.) forms many adverbs from nouns, adjectives,⁽¹⁾ &c. ; as, on-riht-e (L. rect-e)⁽²⁾ a-riht a-right, rightly; lang-e (L. long-e) long; mid-ealle altogether; be-dæle partly; tó-sóðe in sooth, truly; of-dúne, a-dún a-down, down; tó-gædere (æt-gædere), tó-somme (æt-somme, G. zu-sammen), to-gether.

líc-e (E. -ly; the same, borrowed from adjectives in -líc): sceort-líc-e short-ly, strang-líc-e strong-ly.

Other ablatives are the conjunctions for-þý therefore; (for-) hwý? (for) why?; datives for-þám because, tó-þón-þæt in order that, síð-þán (G. seit-dem) since.

(2) L. adverbs in -e were perhaps ablatives, like those in -o, as ver-o and the like.

(3) Stic (II. 1) piece, bit, (steak) (G. stück); mæl (II. 3) (G. mahl) meal, time of eating, milking cows, &c.

(4) The proper genitives of niht, willa, and néd (neód) are nihte, willan, néde; at an early stage of the language, all nouns formed the gen. in -es or s; comp. the many Gr. and L. genitives in -og &c. and -is.

yore, son-a soon, forthwith, eall-unga altogether, hol-inga in vain, yrr-inga angrily.

-an (an oblique case): níw-an of late, newly, for-an on-be-út-an) a-bout, &c.

 hwær (hwar) where; inn-e within, út-e without.

VI.—Composition.⁽⁶⁾

The A. S. language, like the Greek, German, &c. abounds in compound words, of which the last part commonly settles the part of speech. Nouns and adjectives are usually compounded together, and with verbs, without change, as in English, &c.; as, fíc-treów fig-tree, heáfod-man (G. haupt-mann) head-man, captain, heáhsacerd, high-priest, bisceop-ríce bishop-ric, stæf-cræft letter-craft, grammar, medo-ærn⁽⁷⁾ mead-hall, þeow-boren slave-born, stede-fæst stead-fast, bealo-full baleful, snáw-hwít (G. schnee-weiss) snow-white, íren-heard (G. eisen-hart) as hard as iron, lif-fæstan

⁽⁵⁾ D. bo ven; “Oranje boyen!” ⁽⁶⁾ See Rask, pp. 113—117.

⁽⁷⁾ Or -ern; sealt-ern salt-ern.

to quicken, ful-fremman (G. voll-bringen) to ful-fil, and the like.

A noun, however, standing first, is often put in the genitive case, especially in local names; as, dómes-dæg doom's-day, hilde-byrne war-corslet; Engla-land England, land of the Angles; Cant-wara-burh Canterbury, burgh of the Kenters; Cinges-tún King's-town, Kingston; Beorminga-hám Birming-ham, home of the Beormings; Oxena-ford Ox-ford, ford of oxen; from dóm, hild, Engle, Cant-ware, cing, Beorming, oxa. One or each part is sometimes shortened, &c.; as, frum-cenned first-born, æl-beorht all-bright, mild-heort mild-hearted; from fruma beginning, eall, milde, heorte. Prepositions and adverbs commonly stand before verbs, &c. without change, as in English, German, &c.; as, ymb-gang (G. um-gang) circuit; þurh-faran (G. durch-fahren) to go through; wið-standan (G. wider-stehen) to with-stand; tó-cymé coming to (L. ad-ventus); fore-rynel fore-runner; fore-mihtig (L. præ-potens) very mighty; úp-riht (G. auf-recht) up-right; úp-stígan⁽¹⁾ (G. auf-steigen) to go up; niðer-stígan (G. nieder-steigen) to go down; ford-gán (G. fort-gehen) to go forth; út-lág out-law (L. ex-lex); ofer-cuman to over-come; ofer-mód (G. über-muth) pride; under-niman (G. unter-nehmen) to under-take; fram-ge-wítan to depart from; in-lædan (G. ein-leiten) to lead in; geond-geótan to pour through, suffuse; on-gean-cyrran to turn back again; of-sceótan

(G. ab-schiessen) to shoot off; æfter-fyligend successor, one who follows after; mid-síðian to travel with; sundor-spræc conversation apart; samod-(sam-)-wyrcean to work together, co-operate.

The preposition be, bi, usually becomes big in composition; as, big-spel (G. bei-spiel) example, parable; big-standan (G. bei-stehen) to stand by; it may thus be known from the particle be, which sometimes becomes bi; as, be-standan, bi-standan (G. be-stehen) to stand on, occupy.⁽²⁾ On often becomes an- or a-; as, on-bídan, an-bídan, a-bídan to a-bide. Æt and ođ in composition often mean from, away; as, æt-berstan to burst away, ođ-yrnan to run away, escape, like G. ent-bersten, -rinnen.

Particles are also freely compounded together.

Prepositions, and other particles in composition, are often parted from their verb, as in German; but the same rules can hardly be given in A. S.

In general, þurh, úp, niðer, tó, forð, út, in, on, bi (big) are separable; a-, an-, be-, ge-, ed-, un-, or-, mis-, ođ, and-, wið, sam-, for-, to-, are inseparable; æt, of, &c. are rarely separated.

CHAPTER VII.

I.—Syntax.

THE A. S. Syntax in general resembles that of Greek and German; but it bears the closest likeness, with some remarkable points of difference from that and other tongues, to the Latin, with which it should be compared throughout. The concords agreeing in A. S. with those in Latin, &c. need not be repeated. With regard to the construction of sentences it may be observed, that the verb often stands after both the subject and the object, coming last of all, as for the most part in German; as, þá Darius ge-seáh þæt he ofer-wunnen beón wolde, þá wolde he hine sylfne on þám ge-feohte for-spillan, when Darius saw that he should be overcome, then he would lose his life in the fight.

⁽²⁾ See Formation of Particles.

On þære tíde þa Gotan wið Rómana-ríce ge-winn úp-a-hófon, at that time the Goths raised up war against the Roman empire.

We sceolon mid biternysse sóðre be-hreow-sunge úre móð ge-clænsian, we must with the bitterness of true repentance cleanse our mind.

Often, however, sentences are in this and other respects framed as in English; and on the whole this part of the grammar will not prove difficult to the student, and may be better learned from reading than from any rules that might be given.

II.—Syntax of Nouns.

Nouns of time answering to the question, “how long?” are put in the accusative or ablative; as,

Ealle wucan all the week.

Þrý dagas, or þrym dagum three days.

Answering to the question “when?” they stand in the ablative, dative with on, or genitive; as, þý feorðan dógore on the fourth day.

On þissum geare in this year.

Ussa tída⁽¹⁾ in our times.

Measure, value, age, and the like, are used in the genitive; as,

Twegra elna heáh two ells high.

Ynces lang an inch long.

þreora mila brád three miles broad.

Sex peninga wyrðe worth six pence.

A'nes geares lamb a lamb of one year.

The matter to which a measure, &c. is applied, stands in the genitive; as,

Hund mittena hwætes a hundred measures of wheat.

Hund-teontig punda goldes a hundred pounds of gold.

It sometimes remains unchanged; as,

Twegen marc gold⁽²⁾ two marks of gold.

Quality, praise, or blame, stands in the genitive; as,

A'r-wyrðre yldo of venerable age.

Fægeres and-wlitan of fair countenance.

Two ablatives or datives are used absolutely like the L. double ablative; as,

Ge-togene þý wæpne⁽³⁾ the weapon (being) drawn.

A-fundenum sceápe the sheep (being) found.

Two datives, the latter governed by tó, are used like the L. double dative; as, þæt he ús tó fultume sý⁽⁴⁾ that he may be (for) a help to us.

(1) Comp. F. de nos temps.

(2) G. zwei mark gold.

(3) L. stricto telo; ove repertâ.

(4) L. ut nobis auxilio sit.

The means or instrument stands in the ablative or dative, with or without the preposition mid ; as,

Hine mid þý heofon-lícan weg-nyste ge-trym-mende strengthening himself with that heavenly viaticum.

þý betstan leóðe ge-glenged adorned with the best lay.

Heó hí sylfe mid cyne-lícum reáfe ge-frætwode she adorned herself with royal attire.

Híg sprecað niwum tungum they shall speak with new tongues.

III.—Syntax of Adjectives.

Adjectives in general, especially those denoting want, desire, knowledge, remembrance, and the like, have a genitive case of the noun which defines them, and often stand after it ; as,

Feos wana wanting money.

Freónda leás lacking friends.

Hrægles pearfa devoid of raiment.

Earn ættes georn an eagle eager for food.

Sídes wérig weary of travel.

Mægenes strang strong of might.

I'sig federa icy of wings.

They sometimes take an ablative; as,

Adjectives denoting pleasure, profit, injury, and the like, govern a dative; as, þeáh he him leóf wære though he were dear to them.

Eallum and-feng acceptable to all.

Nán man nis his ge-líca no man is like him.

The word which determines a comparative stands before it in the ablative neuter; as, þrym mundum hýrra three hands higher.

(¹) Thus L. similes pueris; ejus similis.

Þý weoðra so much the worthier.

Comparatives require either þonne or þe than, with a nominative, or an ablative or genitive without ; as,

Ge synd sélran þonne manega spearwan, or ge synd beteran manigum spearwum ye are better than many sparrows.

O'ðer-healf gear læs þe þrittig wintra a year and a half less than thirty years.

Se is his mára he is greater than him.

Superlatives take a genitive ; as,

Ealra wyrta mæst greatest of all herbs.

* * For the Syntax of Pronouns see Chapter IV.

IV.—Syntax of Verbs.

Verbs, as in other tongues, agree in number with their subject ; after ælc þára (þæra) þe each of them that, every one that, however, the singular is used, agreeing with ælc and not with þára ; as,

Ælc þára þe tó me cymð (lit. each of them that cometh—) every one that cometh to me.

Swá ge-býrað ælcum þára þe winð so it befitteth every one that contendeth.

A'n of þám þý sweorde a-bræð one of them drew his sword.

Mid-þý heó pá þý slæpe to-bræð when she then had cast off sleep.

The following require the subjunctive, though in general, as in Latin, in subordinate prepositions only:

þeáh(-þe) though	þá-hwíle(-þe) ⁽⁶⁾ (the) while may the blind lead the blind?

Cweðe ge hæbbe ge sufol? have ye meat?

Uton gán let us go.

The negative ne not stands (like L. non, ne, F. ne) before the verb; as,

Ne for-læt he eów he will not forsake you.

Two⁽¹⁾ or more negatives are often used, ne being usually prefixed to each word capable of taking it; as,

Ne wép þú ná weep not.

Þá næs nán cræft þæt ic ne cúðe then there was no art that I knew not.

Se-þe nis náðer ne ge boren ne ge-sceapen fram nánum óðrum who is neither born nor created by any other.

VII.—Syntax of Interjections.

Wá wo takes a dative; as,

Wá þám men!⁽³⁾ wo to the man! where sý (beó) be, or býð shall be is understood.

(¹) The doctrine, therefore, that “two negatives make an affirmative,” is as foreign to the true spirit of the English as it would be to that of the Greek language.

(²) Comp. F. nous n'avons que.

(³) L. vae homini! G. weh dem manne!

Wá is me⁽⁴⁾! wo is me!

On the other interjections, of which the following are the chief, nothing need be added :

VERSE EXTRACTS.

I.—Narrative Verse.

Anglo-Saxon Poetry is of various kinds, distinguished by rime, by alliteration, or by both; the commonest however only, termed Narrative Verse, will be here described. Its chief characteristic is Alliteration ⁽¹⁾, or the correspondence of the first letters of a certain number of the most important words in each line of a couplet, two called sub-letters riming thus together in the first line, and answering to a third called the chief letter in the second. The first line has often but one sub-letter and never more than two; the second never more than one chief letter. The length of the lines varies much, each however must contain at least two emphatic or root syllables, with one or more unemphatic, that is prefixes, terminations, &c.: few lines have less than four syllables, two emphatic, and two unemphatic, and some have as many as eight or nine, or even more. For example⁽¹⁾ :

(1) Alliteration is found in the Latin poetry of the middle ages, sometimes combined with line and final rime, and syllabic metre; it was used more or less in England along with other kinds of rime till a late period, and is still usual in the Scandinavian tongues. The Vision of Piers Plouhman (1350) is a long and regular specimen of English alliterative poetry, on the above rules. For a full account of the A. S. versification, see Rask's Grammar, pp. 136—68.

Hú lomp ⁽²⁾ eów on láde ⁽³⁾	How befell it you on your voyage
leófa Beó-wulf,	dear Beówulf,
þá þú færinga feor ge-hogodest	when thou suddenly far off determinedst sæcce ⁽⁴⁾ sécean ofer sealt wæter,	warfare to seek over the salt water, hilde ⁽⁵⁾ tó Heorote ⁽⁶⁾ ?	battle at Heorot ?
Ac þú Hród-gære wið cúðne wean ⁽⁷⁾	Hast thou then Hróthgár against his known plague
wihte ge-béttest ⁽⁸⁾ , mærum þeódne ⁽⁹⁾ ?	ought bootied, the famous prince ?

Here the first couplet has in the first line two sub-letters, the l in lomp and láde, answering to the chief letter, the l in leófa in the second. The third line has but one sub-letter, the f in færinga which rimes with

(1) Beówulf, ed. Kemble l. 3969—79.

(2) Limpan (III. 1.) to happen.

(3) Ládu (III. 3.) líðan to travel, journey, chiefly by sea.

(6) The palace of Hróthgár prince of a Danish tribe.

(7) Wea evil, misfortune.

(8) Bétan to profit, improve, do good to; bót (II. 3.) boot, profit.

(9) Though quantity and number of syllables seem no essential part of A. S. versification, many lines will bear a more or less regular scanning; thus most short lines consist either of two trochees, like the 2nd, 5th, and 11th above, or of a dactyl and spondee like the 10th: the 3rd, and 6th, also might be called imperfect adonics.

that in feor in the fourth. The third and fourth couplets have each two sub-letters like the first; the fourth again but one, wið being here not emphatic. The last line depends for its alliteration on the first of the next period; the couplet joining two lines by alliteration only, is often thus broken by the sense.

When the chief letter is a vowel or diphthong, the sub-letters must likewise be vowels or diphthongs, but need not be the same; as,

U'tan ymbe æðelne	Without round the noble
englas stódon.	angels stood.
Eorðan æ'ht-ge-streón,	Earth's possessions,
æpplede gold.	applied ⁽¹⁾ gold.

In the first example the sub-letters ú and æ in the first line answer to the chief letter e in the second; in the other eo, æ', and æ rime together.

When the chief letter is double, the sub letters are usually double likewise; as,

Frægn from-lice ⁽²⁾	He asked prudently
fruman and ende.	the beginning and end.
Sceán scír ⁽³⁾ werod,	Shone the bright host,
scyldas lixton.	shields gleamed.

The following prefixes and prepositions in composition are not reckoned as part of the alliteration, which

IV.—Additional Notes.

Page 1.—Æ is not a diphthong, but a modification of a in the other dialects, for which it is substituted in certain cases, as before a mute, or a consonant followed by e; thus dæg, dæge, but plur. dagas, dagum; so also fæt, sæd, &c. : æ answering to Goth. é, is not changed.

The A. S. wrote i without a dot, ý with one.

Þ probably gave rise to the O. abbreviations ye for the (þe), yt for that (þt), &c.

Page 2.—t̄ was also written for oðð|e or, sóðt̄ for sóð-lice truly, verily. Examples of the use of ñ are þā for þám to the &c., þon̄ for þonne then, when.

In later times ȝ occurs for g, originally most likely a guttural, afterwards = y: hence the O. z still retained in some S. names, as Dalzell, Menzies, pronounced Dalyell, Menyies.

A long vowel is sometimes written double without the accent; as, wiid, good, gees, for wíd, gód, gés, like D. wijd &c.; in G. also the vowel is sometimes doubled in like manner. Where A. S. vowels are made long by contraction the dropt consonant sometimes appears, sometimes not in the modern Teutonic dialects; as, (sleahan) sleán, G. schlagen, D. slaan; gangan, gán, G. gehen, D. gaan; hangan, hón, G. and D. hangen. N has been often dropt and the vowel lengthened before other consonants, above all before s, (Note 1.) while it remains in kindred tongues; as, ést (love, favour), Goth. ansts; gós, G. gans, L. ans-er; ós (god, hero)Goth.ans; sóft, G. sanft; fús (prompt), Goth. funs; ús, Goth. and G. uns, L. nos, &c. This seems the case in Greek too, where ns is in like manner avoided; as, δους, δοῦσα (L. dans), στας, στᾶσα (L. stans), Σιμοεις, and many other words, in some of which the circumflex, as elsewhere, marks the contraction; the ν appears as soon as the σ is removed: neut. δου, σταν; gen. δοντος, σταντος, Σιμοεντος &c. In A. S. í, ý, ó, and ú before ð, often answer to a cognate short vowel followed by nd, nt, or nth, in the other languages; as, líðe, (lithe, soft) G. linde; síð (time) Goth. sinths, Dan. sinde; swið, Goth. swinths; hrýðer, G. rind, D. rund; ýð, L. unda; óðer, Goth. anthars, G. ander; teóðe (tenth), G. zehnte; eúð, G. kund; gúð (war), Goth. gunths, O. G. kund.

In the imperfects stód, bróhte, búhte, þóhte, n is likewise dropt, and the vowel made long, g or e in the three last becoming h, as often else; cunnan and unnan also make cúðe, úðe instead of cunde (G. konnte), unde: bohte bought should most likely be short, not being so contracted. Something like these changes now and then appears in L.; as, fundo, fūdi, fūsus; tundo, tūsus, where the vowel in the present is long for prosodical purposes only. On the whole, though the Gr. and L. quantity sometimes agrees with the A. S., and the D. and G. very often, the Gothic is the only sure guide, or failing that, the Icelandic, or other old kindred dialects.

Page 4.—Sometimes too g is added before e, as g'eów for eów, with little or no change of sound (see p. 41); with a soft vowel before or after it, g seems to have been but lightly sounded, as y, or as a fine guttural.

Page 5.—Other changes are io for eo, and ió for eó; seofon, siofon, heó, hió: u for o, and ú for ó, especially after g'e, which sometimes becomes i; geong, (giung) iung; geó, (giú) iú, ió; Iótas, Iútas Jutes: ie for y, gyld, gield payment, tax &c. U occurs mediævally for v in foreign names, as Dauid David; hence also for f, as luuian for lufian to love. Some of these spellings and those p. 5. are the variations of different times, some of different dialects, of which as yet but little is known with certainty.

Page 8.—A. S. d has sometimes become E. th (soft), often G. t; fæder father; G. vater. þ and ð usually answer to G. and D. d; þreo, G. drei, D. drie; bróðer, G. bruder, D. broeder; ð sometimes to G. and D. t; forð, G. fort, D. voort. See also p. 2 and addition thereto. The loss of these letters in E. and the substitution of the one unmeaning combination th for both the hard and soft sound is much to be regretted. The A. S. had seemingly no rule but custom for the use of these two letters and sounds, as we for the latter, respectively, but as þ is found oftenest at the beginning, and ð at the end of a syllable, they are here so printed throughout.

Page 8—9.—The following are likewise exceptions to the general rule that the A. S. gender agrees with the German:

Neut. clif	G. klippe (f.)	cliff, rock.
— líc	G. leiche (f.)	corpse.
— sæd	G. saat (f.)	seed.
— sceorp	G. schärpe (f.)	scarf.
— big-spel	G. bei-spiel (m.)	example.
— toll	G. zoll (m.)	toll.
Masc. næs	G. nase (f.)	nose, ness.
— sál	G. seil (n.)	cord.
— tear	G. zähre (f.)	tear.
— an-(ge-)weald	G. ge-walt (f.)	power.
Fem. blæd	G. blatt (n.)	fruit, leaf.
— nyt	G. nutz (m.)	use.

L. has clivus masc. and clivum neut. ; nasus is masc.

Page 9.—Swefen dream is fem. II. 3., and neut. III. 1.

Sceó shoe (G. schuh masc.) is masc. II. 2. (plur. sceós), or fem. I. 3. (plur. sceón O. shoon), or III. 3. (plur. (ge-)scý.)

Page 10.—But few certain rules can be given for the genders, especially from the terminations, of which several, as -e, -u, -el, -en, -er, contain nouns of all three. To some of the rules given above the following are exceptions and there may be more: setl seat, and wered host are masc. ; -oð and -uð are interchangeable, and when from an adjective, fem. ; as, geógoð(-uð) youth, from geong : -ð after a consonant is fem. chiefly when from an adjective, as, strengð from strang ; otherwise sometimes neut. as, morð murder, or masc. as monð (monað) month.

Compounds in -lác are neut., in -ráden feminine.

Nouns of the 1st declension are called Simple from the simplicity of their inflection, having but four endings for the eight cases of the two numbers, and also from the close likeness of the three genders ; the 2nd and 3rd declensions are termed Complex, as having in general more case-endings, and wider distinctions of gender. The former kind answer to the Gr. nouns making their dative plural in -σι, and the L. in -bus, the latter to the Gr. which form it in -οις or -αις, and the L. in -is. The terms Weak and Strong for Simple and Complex have greater seeming propriety when applied to other Gothic tongues, Gr. and L. for instance, than to A. S., since in the former case they in general need the help of another syllable to form their inflection, while A. S. needs only -n, and in the latter they have oftener the power of forming their cases without an additional syllable, than the A. S. has. Gr. and L. synonyms sometimes correspond with the A. S. in declension as well as in meaning and etymon; thus, simple: οὐς, aur-is, εάρ-ε; ὀ-νομ-α, nom-en, nam-a; hom-o, gum-a; complex: ἐργ-ον, weorc; πυργ-ος, burh; via, weg; vir, wer. Some nouns have both forms without a change of meaning; as, heofon, heofone heaven, mann, manna man, ἡέω, ἡέωα slave; some with; as, μήσ month (animate), μούσα mouth (inanimate), see List III. above; lufa and lufe are sometimes used indifferently, but usually the former stands for love, affection (amor), the latter for love, sake (gratia): Godes lufu love of God; for sumes gódes lufan for the sake of some good.

Page 11.—The neuter is placed first in the declension of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, as the simplest and purest form of the word, the masculine next as agreeing with it usually in three or four cases out of the five, and the feminine last as generally unlike both. The accusative stands next after the nominative as agreeing with it always in the neut., and sometimes in the masc., while in the fem. it is derived from it; the ablative next as in some words derived from the accus.; and the genitive after the dative as sometimes derived from it, and last of all, as being in neuters and masculines in general most changed from the nominative. This applies more or less to Gr., L., G. &c.: in A. S. it is more apparent in complex than in simple nouns, more still in the indefinite inflection of adjectives, and most of all in demonstrative pronouns. As regards the genders, t wá, b á, and ḡreo are noticeable exceptions.

Page 13.—The plural ending -an (G. -en) became in time -en which in ox-en (ox-an) is yet rightly used; hos-en (hós-a), and P. hous-en (hús), and furz-en (fyr-as) are wrong. To brethr-en (bróðr-u), and childr-en (cildr-u) too it has been wrongly added; O. w. child-er still in P. use: see p. 18, n. 3. Chick-en (G. küch-en) whence chick is shortened, is no more a plural than maid-en or vix-en; see p. 66.

Proper names in -a whether A. S. or foreign are thus declined; as Gota Goth, Beda, Anna: Europa follows the L. making accus. Europam; dat. and gen. Europe (the medieval form of Europæ) Donua Danube (G. Donau; well called by Milton Donaw), and sometimes Sicilia and the like are not declined. There are no A. S. fem. names in -a; all nouns in -a being masc., those now so written end either in a consonant or in -u, (II. 3. or III. 3.); as, Mæð-hild Eád-gifu, since latinised to Mathilda, Edgiva. Other foreign names sometimes take the L. cases except the vocative; as, He ge-seáht Simonem he saw Simon. Fram Decapoli from Decapolis Iacobus Zebedei James (son) of Zebedee. Lazarus gá út Lazarus come forth! Masculines ending in a consonant often follow II. 2., as, Salomon, Salomones, Salomone; Petrus, Petre and the like.

The now anomalous genitives in -ens of some G. simple nouns, as herz-ens, nam-ens, will-ens, lieb-ens(-würdig), are derived from the Goth. gen., hairt-ins, nam-ins (L. nom.-inis) wilj-ins &c. A. S. heort-an, nam-an, will-an, luf-an. Glaub-ens is the only gen. of this kind which had a nom. in -en, glauben, (complex) Goth. ga-láubeins, A. S. (simple) ge-leáfa. Herz-e (Goth. hairto, A. S. heorte) is still in P. and poetical use: other G. simple nouns, as heri (A. S. hearra) have lost the final vowel. Feminines have in general lost the oblique -n in the singular, except in some phrases, as auf erden (on earth), vor freuden (for joy) &c. Many feminines and a few masculines properly complex now form the plural in -n, and in general the two orders have come to be much mixed.

Page 15.—Nouns in -e (II. 2.) sometimes keep the e in the plural; as, end-eas, end-eum &c.

Freónd and feónd being originally participials, derived, the former from freógan (G. freien) to court, honour, the latter from a lost verb akin to fáh hostile (whence foe), properly made the nom. and accus. sing. and plur. alike, but in time came to be inflected as II. 2.

It is only in monosyllables before one consonant that æ is changed to a; otherwise not; as, wæstm, pl. wæstmas (fruit) æcer, pl. æceras, æcras: thus too in adjectives; smæl, þæt smale, smalor, but fæst, þæt fæste, fæstor and the like.

Feld and ford originally belonged to III. 2; feld-u, ford-u like sun-u

Page 17.—Hand belongs to a lost class of complex feminines in -u: hand-u.

Page 20.—Wædla poor hitherto called an adjective having the definite inflection only, seems rather a noun (I. 2.) a beggar; wædlian to beg. þearfa poor is commonly if not always used as a noun—a poor man. wana wanting seems indeclinable.

Page 24.—The comparative and superlative endings -or, -ost (-oste), and -er, -est (-este) are sometimes used indifferently, but it would seem that the former oftener follow a, o, and u, the latter e, i, or y. see addit. note on p. 42

Page 25.—Several of these adjectives form adverbs regularly in -e and -lice (p. 70.) as lang-e, lang-lice, strang-e, strang-lice, hræd-lice, heág-e, heá-lice, eáð-e, eáðe-lice, sceort-lice, sóft-e, yfel-e, lytl-e.

Page 26.—Lesser for less is as wrong as least-est for least would be, or as wors-er for worse is. Lest is (þý-)læ s(-þe), t being added as in against-t &c. The ending -mest has no connexion with mæst most, though it also has become -most: our upper-most, after-most &c. have arisen from the wrong notion that most was added to the comparative.

Page 27.—Ye is therefore the true nom., you the accus. &c. "If any man say ought to you, ye shall say."

Page 29.—Mine and thine are therefore the older forms, from which my and thy are shortened; the former were long retained before vowels.

Page 30.—Þissere and þissera are older forms than þisse and þissa.

Page 32.—The á- in á-wiht &c. must not be confounded with the common prefix a- for en-, an- (p. 73); á is ever, aye, ái, Goth. áiw-, G. je, whence aiw, Goth. áiws, L. ævum, age, eternity. A'- or æg- (p. 65) gives a general sense like G. je, in je-mand some one; á-hwær some-, any-, every-where, á-hwænnne some time, any time, P. some-when, any-when: with the negative it becomes ná never, no; ná-hwider no-whither: ná-wiht is more regular than nán-wiht. A'wðer and áðer (if true readings) are contractions of á-hwæðer, and = ægðer, æg-hwæðer: náwðer is ná-hwæðer = L. ne-uter; hence rightly comes O. and P. nother neither has arisen from either.

Page 33.—Our one and a are both descended from án; in an before a vowel the n has been restored; most languages use the same word in both senses: in A. S. sum is commoner for the article than án.

Page 37.—Verbs of the first conjugation are called Simple from the simplicity of their inflection, and its likeness in the three classes, or Weak as needing the help of another syllable to form their imperfect; those of the second and third are termed Complex from the various changes of vowel &c. they undergo, and the greater diversity of their classes, or Strong, as having in themselves the power of forming their imperfect. The analogy of the A. S. simple with the Gr. contracted verbs, and the L. 1st, 2nd, and 4th conjugations, and of the A. S. complex with the Gr. regulars, and L. 3rd conj. is worthy of attention. Some of the Gr. and L. synonyms agree in conjugation, as well as in meaning and etymology with the A. S.; as, simple: ceall-ian, καλ-ειν, cal-are to call; tem-ian, δαμ-ειν, dom-are to tame; lix-an, L. luc-ere to shine: complex; graf-an, γραφ-ειν; to (en-)grave, write; brec-an, ρήγ-ειν, frang-ere, to break; ter-an, τερ-ειν, ter-ere to tear &c.; flów-an, flu-ere to flow; drag-an, trah-ere to draw, drag. Simple verbs are now in E. and G. usually called regular, complex irregular; in both many complex verbs have in course of time become simple, and this change is still going on. Thus bake, sleep, leap, sweep, weep, fare, wield, fold, step, starve, creep, reek, lye screak, dive, shove, row, flow, swallow, brook &c. from A. S. complex forms have become simple: others are in a fair way to do so, retaining only a complex imperf. or part. past, some of which are either gone or going out of use; as, hung, hove, stood, shove, clomb, glode, bet, shod; waxen, hewn, laden, graven, shapen, washen, strewn, holpen, bursten, foughten, swollen &c.

G. walten (to rule), wallen (to boil), sähen (to sow), krähen (to crow), kauen (to chew), wachen (to watch), wathen (to wade), reuen (to rue), lachen (to laugh), as also most of the E. synonyms, have become simple; others, as backen (to bake), hauen (to hew), sieden (to seethe) &c. are in the transition state. A few E. verbs from A. S. I. 2., and I. 3. have assumed imperfects (but not participles past) of a seeming complex form; as, meet, met; lead, led; send, sent; build, built; from métan, lédan, sendan, byldan. A very few A. S. verbs have both forms without change of meaning; as, bringan; bringe, bróhte, bróht, or bringe, brang, brungen; the latter however is rare.

Page 38.—Attention should be paid to the quantity of the complex or strong imperfects, both as compared with that of the present, and as to whether it is long throughout, or short throughout, or short in the first and third persons singular, and long in the 2nd, and the whole plural, or long in the first and third pers., and short in the rest. Thus II. 2. from presents some short, some long, and II. 3. from presents all short, make it long throughout, except some doubtful in the former; as, healde; heóld, heólde &c. drage; dróh &c. III. 1. has the present short, and the imperf. short throughout with a change of vowel; binde; band, bunde, band, bundon. II. 1. short in the pres. has the imperf. short and long; brece; bræc, bráce, bræc, brácon; except the few in ea; as, geaf, geafe &c., together with com, come &c., and nam, name &c. which are short throughout. III. 2. and III. 3. with long pres. have the imperf. long and short with a change of vowel; drife; dráf, drife, dráf, drifon; clúfe; cleáf, clufe, cleáf, clufon. Complex participles past are all short but some of II. 2.

like I. 2.; as, fyligan to follow, imperf. fyligde, imper. fylig, but part. past fyligd: see p. 42.

Page 42.—There seem to have been originally two distinct classes of verbs in -ian, both now included in I. 1., the one forming its imperf. and part. past in -óde, -ód, the other in -ede, -ed; the former answering closely to the Gr. contracted verbs, and the L. in -āvi, -ātus, ēvi, ēt-us, and -īvi, īt-us, the latter to the L. in -ui, ūt-us &c. In time -óde, ód were shortened, and then came to be confounded with -ede, -ed, many verbs being found with both forms; -ode, -od however seems to occur oftenest when the root-vowel is a, o, or u, -ede, ed when it is e, i, or y; see addit. note on p. 25: -ade, -ad is a modification of -ode, -od. The -de, -ed (-d) of I. 2. 3. is contracted from -ede, -ed, I. 1.; when the d is thus brought next a hard consonant it becomes t.

The characteristic c is not changed if l, n, or s stand before it; as, elce (delay) imperf. elcte; drence (drench) drencte; wisce (wish) wiscte; unless the n be dropt, as in þince, þúhte, and the like: it else commonly (in simple verbs) becomes h, as in táce, p. 42, &c.

Page 43.—The original form of the 2nd and 3rd persons sing. of I. 2, 3, II. and III. was hýrest, hýreš, tellest, telleš, brecest, breceš, healdest, healdeš, dragest, drageš, bindest, bindeš, drífest, drífeš, clúfest, clúfeš and the like, which often occur, especially in poetry: the shortened and modified forms hýrst, hýrš, telst, briest &c. given in the grammar are more modern, and commonest in prose.

Page 44.—All verbs seem at first to have formed their 1st pers. pres. in -o or -u; comp. -ow and L. -o: haf-o = L. hab-eo.

Page 50.—Most of the verbs in II. 2., and some in II. 3. are derived from the Goth. reduplicative verbs, which repeat the long syllable; the A. S. has kept only what may be called the literal augment, and that in but a few verbs; as, héh t, leólc, reórd, from hátan, lácan (to play, deceive), ráðan (G. reden to discourse), where the Goth.

has hái-háit, lái-láik, rái-ród from háitan &c. Some only alter the vowel. as sceape, sceóp, where the Goth. has sái-skáp.

Page 54.—Verbs in -án form their part. pres. in -ánde; sleán, sleánde.

Page 58.—Wríðan is an exception to the general rule that complex verbs change ð into d in the 2nd pers. sing., and in the plural of the imperf., and in the past part.: see cweðan p. 50, weorðan p. 57, and seóðan p. 60, which are all regular.

Page 62.—Complex participles past sometimes agree like adjectives with a noun, sometimes do not; as, Ða þing þe him ge-sende wáron the things that were sent him. Seó óðre naman wæs Tate háten who by another name was hight Tate.

The part. past in the pluperfect is sometimes governed in the accus. by the auxiliary hæbban, as, Ðá híg hæfdon hyra lof-sang ge-sungenne when they had sung their song of praise.

Page 63 —Un- sometimes, as in G., is not merely negative, but implies badness; un-þeáw bad habit, un-weder (G. un-ge-witter) storm, bad weather.

The prefix to- must be carefully distinguished from the preposition tó in composition; as, to-gán to go asunder, separate, tó-gán to go to; G. zer-gehen, zu-gehen: to- implies division, dispersion of parts, and hence often destruction.

Page 64.—For- gives in general a negative or bad sense, or is intensive, much like κατα-; déman to judge, for-déman to condemn, κρινειν, κατα-κρινειν, G. ur-theilen, ver-urtheilen; bernan to burn, for-bernán to burn up, consume, καειν, κατα-καειν, G. brennen, ver-brennen; dón to do, make, for-dón to un-do, ruin, destroy; scyppan to form, for-scyppan to trans-form, de-form; for-fela very many. This prefix must not be confounded with the prepositions for and fore; (probably of the same origin, = L. pro); thus for-seón is to over-look, de-spise, G. ver-sehen; for-seón, fore-seón to fore-see, G. vor-sehen; for-gán to for-go, do without, perish, G. ver-gehen, L. per-ire; fore-gán to fore-go, go before, G. vor-gehen, L. præ-ire. It is as wrong to write fore-go for for-go, as fore-give for for-give.

And- answers closely to ἀντι-, denoting opposition, reciprocity &c.; and-saca denier; and-wyrdan, and-swarian, ἀντ-ερειν to answer; and-wlitan, ἀντι βλεπειν, to gaze at, look in the face.

The prefix ge- is in A. S. used oftener and more indiscriminately than in any kindred language old or new. Though originally conveying no notion of past time, it seems gradually to have acquired it, and to have become a kind of syllabic augment to imperfects, but especially to participles past, as in Dutch and German. In the formation of English it was by degrees dropt before all but participles past, where it first became i- or y-, and has since been lost altogether, surviving only as a- in some P. words. In G. and D. it is still in use before nouns, adjectives &c., but in general with a distinct effect on their meaning, referible to its original collective force. A. S. ge- sometimes denotes the result of doing a thing; as, Ge-slóh þín fæder fáh ða máste thy father by striking avenged the greatest of feuds. His feorh ge-faran oð ðe ge-irnan to save his life by going or running (to a sanctuary).

Page 65.—The prefix or- (left out in the right place) denotes want of a thing; as, or-mæte im-mense, measure-less, or-trúwian to de-spair, or-sorh care-less, se-cure: it must not be confounded with or- in or-eald very old, (G. ur-alt), from or, ord beginning, point, connected with L. or-ior, or-igo &c.

The ending -el, -ol, answers sometimes to L. -ul-um; gyrd-el, L. cing-ulum, girdle.

The primary meaning of -ing is young, and hence it forms patronymics, and terms of contempt &c.: -ling has been supposed to be derived from -ing.

Page 66.—Other feminines in -en are menn-en from man, G. mann, männin; gyd-en from god, G. gott, gött-in, D. god, god-in: in -e; fyl-e, filly, from fol-a foal; wale from wealh or wala, Celt, stranger; webb-e (or webb-estre web-ster), from webb-a weaver.

The ending -estre (like D. -ster) is feminine only, and the notion of thus forming nouns of contempt &c., as pun-ster, trick-ster, road-ster is modern.

The ending dóm is properly a noun (II. 2.) doom, judgment, authority, dignity: hád is also a noun (II. 2.) state, condition, rank, Holy Orders.

Page 67.—-scipe (not occurring alone) is related to scapan, (sceapan), to shape, form, create, and denotes form, mode, condition; land-scape, or land-ship, (land-scipe) G. land-schaft, D. land-schap, should in rule be land-ship, unless borrowed, like a few other words, directly from the Dutch.

The adjective ending -ig answers to ικ-ος, L. -ic-us.

Page 68.—A. S. -isc had often a bad sense, which E., G., and D. -ish, -isch, -sch almost always have, except when added to local names; the three former often contrast with -lic, -like or -ly, G. -lich, which convey a good or indifferent notion; as, folc-isc vulgar (Chaucer has pepl-ish), folc-lic popular; cild-isc child-ish, G. kind-isch, cild-lic child-like, G. kind-lich; compare also mann-ish, man-like, man-ly, G. männ-isch, männ-lich; woman-ish, woman-ly, G. weib-isch, weib-lich; girl-ish, maiden-ly &c.

While -ol (-ul) answers in form to L. -ul-us, in sense it is more like -ax, commonly denoting a wrong propensity; as, sprec-ol, cwid-ol, L. loqu-ax, dic-ax talkative, evil-tongued; et-ol, L. ed-ax greedy. Sometimes as in sóð-sag-ol truth-telling, deópþanc-ol deep-thinking, it expresses a good quality.

-en (G. -ern, -en) usually denotes the material of which a thing is made; as, stán-en of stone, G. stein-ern; treów-en treen, wood-en; gyld-en gold-en, G. gold-en; lin-en lin-en, of lin or flax, G. lein-en; from stán, treów, gold, lin. Several words thus formed are now obsolete; ston-en, brick-en &c. are still in P. use.

-cund answers to L. -cund-us.

Some adjectives are formed in -ed or -d like simple participles past, as, ge-hyrned horn-ed, (G. ge-hörn-t); ge-sceód shod (G. ge-schuh-t); the rest of the verb, if any, is here wanting.

Page 69.—c-, -n-, -s-, in these and the like verbs represent lost syllables; therefore swin-s-ian (to make melody) is no exception to the rule against ns in the same syllable; see p. 2. n. 1.

The verbal endings -ian and -an (-εiv, G. and D. -an) became in time -en and -e, the latter of which has in many cases been dropt, in all has lost its sound. Such verbs as whit-en, black-en are of modern use, to white and the like being the older form.

Page 71.—Other adverbs in common use are: á aye, always, æfre (G. and D. immer) ever, næfre (G. and D. nimmer) never, æ dre straightway, recene instantly, eft-sona eft-soon, forth-with, endemes at length, þær-rihte (forð-rihte) forthwith, elles else, otherwise, elles-hwider else-whither, ellor elsewhere, þus (D. dus) thus, georne (G. gerne) earnestly, willingly, þearle very, exceedingly, geara well, accurately, (lyt-)hwon a little (S. a wheen), hugu (hwegu), hwæt-(hwylc)-hugu &c. somewhat, a little, þances gratis, á gnes þances of one's own accord, his &c. willan, unwillan with, against his &c. will, semninga suddenly, hrædinga quickly, áninga (áninga) alone, only, on bæc-ling backward. Sona is construed with a genitive; as, Sona þæs soon after that. Sona þæs wintres early in the winter.

Page 72.—It seems likely that the first part of the word Oxena-ford is not from oxa ox, but from the Celtic root meaning water, river, (A. S. wos is ooze, liquid) which appears in Ouse (many) Isis, Ex, Ax, Usk, Esk, Oise, Aisne, Yssel, Oxus, and so many other names of rivers; and this is confirmed by Ousn-ey in the neighbourhood. Ford of oxen is however the strict meaning of the A. S. name, and doubtless the one then attached to it; Βογ-πορος, Schwein-furt, Swin-ford and the like supply fair analogies.

Ofer- sometimes conveys the same idea as for-; ofer-gitan (= for-gitan) to forget, ofer-hycgan = for-hycgan to despise.

Of- beside its intensive force (p. 105. n. 2.) sometimes has a bad one; as, me þincð me thinks, me of-þincð it repenteth me, I take it ill.

Page 73.—Our prefix a- has in general sprung from the A. S. on- (a-n-, a-), and on is still sometimes used for it; as, a-float, A. S. on-flote; a-live, A. S. on-life (G. am leben); a-two (in-two), A. S. on-twá; a-feared, A. S. a-fered; O. on flote, on life, on two, also on sleep, on row &c. now a-sleep &c.; we yet say on board, or a-board, on fire, or a-fire and the like: see also p. 69—71, 73.

In some words a- is from A. S. of-; as, of-dúne (a-dúne, a-dún) a-down, down (= G. berg-ab); of-þyrst a-thirst; we say too of kin or a-kin; it is therefore not unlikely that in other cases A. S. a- may, as the sense would imply, have sprung from of-; thus a-faran to depart, a-wendan to turn away, a-weorpan to cast off, answer to G. ab-fahren, and G. and D. ab-wenden, af-wenden, ab-werfen, af-werpen: so ἀπο, ἀπ' became L. ab, and that in time a. Once or twice E. a- is from A. S. ge-; as ge-líc (O. y-like), a-like; ge-mang (O. e-mong), a-mong.

Page 77.—Adjectives also take an abl. or dat. of the cause &c., which commonly stands first; as, Iú-dá d um fá h stained with (my) former deeds. Wu nd um w érig wearry with wounds.

Likewise of the person &c. by whom the action implied is done; as, His freó nd um or w éne despaired of by his friends. Wurð- full þám cyningum to be honoured by kings. Un-a-seg end- líc á n ig um unspeakable by any.

Adjectives in general govern the object to which they have relation in the dative; as, Ic eom ge-trý we m í non hláf-orde I am true to my lord. He wæs me yrre he was angry with me. Dryhten wæs þám folce gram (the) Lord was wroth with the people.

Adjectives denoting nearness also govern the dative; as, A'n bisco p þe him þá hendest wæs a bishop that was then nearest (handiest) to him.

Some adverbs take the same case as the adjectives whence they are formed: N á n ig him ge-líce þæt dón meah te none could do that like him.

Page 79.—The following verbs also govern the dative of the far object: secgan to say, tell, bodian to preach, announce, beóðan to offer, and-wyrdan, and-swarian to answer, gifan to give, for-gifan to give away, forgive, syllan to give, sell (of which examples need not be given), wið-metan to compare, measure with, ge-an-lícian to liken, make like; yrsian to be angry with, æt-filhan to approach, apply to, wísian (wissian) to guide, direct, fore-wesan (L. præ-esse) to govern, be over, be-sárgian to pity, be sorry for, have a dative of the near object; losian to be lost, escape from, one of the person affected; as, Hire fær is wið-meten fyrd-lícum truman her going is compared to an army on the march. Ic eom yslum and axum ge-an-lícod I am made like cinders and ashes. Se-þe yrsað his bréðer he that is angry with his brother. Nó ic him þæs georne æt-fealh I did not therefore willingly approach him. Ðæt híg mihton þám folce wel wissian that they might guide the people well. Mid-þý heó þá feala geara þissum mynstre fore-wæs when she then many years had ruled this convent. Þá be-sárgode he þære sorh-fullan méder then pitied he the sorrowful mother. Him losade án sceáp he had lost one sheep.

Some of the verbs having a dative &c. of the object to which the action is directed, govern the thing done in the accusative; as, Dé ma ð rihtne dóm judge right judgment.

Page 81.—The following verbs are sometimes used in the usual reflexive way with the pronoun in the accusative: ge-biddan to pray, warnian to be ware, belgan to be angry, ge-wraðian to be wroth; as, Ðonne þú þe ge-bidde when thou prayest. Warniað eów fram mannum be ware of men. Warniað wið þa bóceras he ware of the scribes. Þá bealh he hine then was he angry. Ge belgað wið me ye are angry with me. Þá ge-wraðede hine se arce-biscop Landfranc then was the archbishop Lanfranc wroth.

Likewise some compounds of seón; as, Hine &c. for-seón (G. sich ver-sehen) to err, commit an oversight, sin. Gif he hine under-bæc be-sáwe if he should look back.

Page 81—3.—Wealdan, on-fón, éhtan, bídan, and earnian sometimes govern the accusative.

Page 83.—On-þracian to dread, feel horror at governs the genitive like on-drædan; as, An-þraciende þæs un-ge-limpes feeling horror at the misfortune.

Page 87.—Be and tó sometimes govern the ablative; as, Be þý mæg ælc mon wítan by that may each man know. Tó-þý-þæt (= tó-þón-þæt) in order that. Tó-hwý why?

As æt is sometimes to, so is tó sometimes at; the two are now and then confounded in E., and G. zu stands for both. Tó and æt (the latter in composition often) sometimes mean from, the former especially with wilnian and sécan; as, Ealle tó þe ætes wilniað all from thee desire food. Manna ge-hwylc se-þe séceð tó him every man that seeketh from him. He þæt ful ge-þeah æt Wealh-þeón he took the cup from (at the hand of) Wealh-theó.

Tó meaning motion to, has sometimes, though seldom, an accusative: He fór tó Samariam þæt land he went to the land of Samaria.

Page 88.—Tó-emnes (a rare word) rather by, along-side, over-against than along, is from efen (efn, emn) even, equal; on-efn (-emn) is the same; Him on-efn ligeð ealdor-ge-winna by him lieth (his) deadly foe. Emn-, em- are common in composition; emn-lang (G. eben (so) lang) of the same length; em-leóf (G. eben (so) lieb) equally dear; em-þeów fellow-slave.

Page 90.—Innon, úton, and úppon should not be divided, -on (-an) being here only an ending and not the preposition on, serving in the two last to change the adverb into a preposition.

Page 93.—Þenden while sometimes has a subjunctive; as, Þenden hit hát sý while it be hot.

Page 95.—For-standan (or fore-standan) to defend, stand before, likewise for-standan (G. ver-stehen) to understand govern the accusative; as, Hine God for-stód him God defended.

Page 96.—Other conjunctions are swá-same-swá the same as—, in like manner as—, ná-læs þæt án ac— not (that) only but—, nates-hwón by no means, nóht-þón-læs never-(nought)-theless, gea yea, ná nay, gese yes, nese no, næs (nas) not, huru moreover, chiefly, huru-þinga at least, þæs-þe since, after that, because, for-hwón, tó-hwón (= for-hwý) hwy, þæs-(for) for that, therefore, gen, gena yet.

Comp. οὐκ ἔχομεν εἰ μὴ—we have (not) but—, one only of the many instances of likeness between the Gr. and A. S. syntax.

Weorðe too may be either expressed or understood; as, Wá (weorðe) þám men! wo worth the man!

Page 97.—Lo! has no more to do with look than O. gif has with gifan: our vulgar law! and lawk! may also be derived from lá!

Page 98.—Which Latin translation the A. S. versions of the Holy Scripture are taken from is hard to say; this only is certain that the A. S. Gospels follow the Vulgate more closely than the Heptateuch does. The Latin MSS. doubtless varied much, and the A. S. is now and then seemingly not an accurate rendering of any one. Ælfríc was a common name; among those who bore it, were an Archbishop of Canterbury, and one of York, of whom the latter is believed to have translated the parts of the O. Testament known as the Heptateuch.

Page 133.—Teóhhian (from teóh, p. 152. n. 3.) means also to furnish, provide, fit out, and perhaps should be so rendered in the extract from Boëthius, where its meaning is not very clear.

Page 140.—Tó- in tó-geanes sometimes does not rime (see p. 158, last line) though seemingly always in other combinations: to- on the other hand never rimes.

The declensions and conjugations are well stated, and illustrated by references to the Greek, Latin, French and other languages. A philosophical spirit pervades every part. The Delectus consists of short pieces on various subjects, with extracts from Anglo-Saxon History and the Saxon Chronicle. There is a good Glossary at the end."—Athenæum, Oct. 20, 1849.

Skelton's (John, Poet Laureat to Henry VIII.)

Poetical Works: the Bowge of Court, Colin Clout, Why come ye not to Court? (his celebrated Satire on Wolsey), Philip Sparrow, Elinour Ruming, &c.; with Notes and Life, by the Rev. A. DYCE, 2 vols. 8vo. cloth, 16s (original price, £1. 12s)

"The power, the strangeness, the volubility of his language, the audacity of his satire, and the perfect originality of his manner, made Skelton one of the most extraordinary writers of any age or country."—Southey.

"Skelton is a curious, able, and remarkable writer, with strong sense, a vein of humour, and some imagination; he had a wonderful command of the English language, and one who was styled, in his turn, by as great a scholar as ever lived (Erasmus), 'the light and ornament of Britain.' He indulged very freely in his writings in censures on monks and Dominicans: and, moreover, had the hardihood to reflect, in no very mild terms, on the manners and life of Cardinal Wolsey. We cannot help considering Skelton as an ornament of his own time, and a benefactor to those who come after him."

A New Life of Shakespeare, including many particulars respecting the Poet and his Family, never before published, by J. O. HALLIWELL, F.R.S., in one handsome vol., 8vo. illustrated with 76 engravings on wood, of objects, most of which are new, from drawings by FAIRHOLT, cloth, 15s

"Dr. Rimbault has been at some pains to collect the words of the Songs which used to delight the Rustics of former times."—Atlas.

Anecdotes and Characters of Books and Men. Collected from the Conversation of Mr. Pope and other eminent Persons of his Time, by the Rev. JOSEPH SPENCE, with Notes, Life, &c. by S. W. SINGER. The second edition, fcap. 8vo. portrait, elegantly printed by Whittingham, cloth, 6s

"The 'Anecdotes' of kind-hearted Mr. Spence, the friend of Pope, is one of the best books of ana in the English language."—Critic.

The Table Talk of John Selden. With a Biographical Preface and Notes by S. W. SINGER, fcap. 8vo. third edition, portrait, cloth, 5s

There are few volumes of its size so pregnant with sense, combined with the most profound learning; it is impossible to open it without finding some important fact or discussion, something practically useful and applicable to the business of life. Coleridge says, "There is more weighty bullion sense in this book than I ever found in the same number of pages in any uninspired writer."

Life, Progresses, and Rebellion of James, Duke of Monmouth, &c. to his Capture and Execution, with a full account of the "Bloody Assize," under Judge Jefferies, and copious Biographical Notices, by GEORGE ROBERTS, 2 vols. post 8vo. plates and cuts, cloth, 7s 6d (original price, £1. 4s)

Two very interesting volumes, particularly so to those connected with the West of England.

A Dictionary of Old English Plays, existing either in print or in manuscript, from the earliest times to the close of the 17th century, including also Notices of Latin Plays written by English Authors during the same period, with particulars of their Authors, Plots, Characters, &c. by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq., F.R.S., 8vo. cloth, 12s

* * * Twenty-five copies have been printed on thick paper, price £1. 1s.

Anecdota Literaria; a Collection of Short Poems in English, Latin, and French, illustrative of the Literature and History of England in the XIIIth Century; and more especially of the Condition and Manners of the different Classes of Society, by T. WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., &c. 8vo. cloth, only 250 copies printed, 5s

Dictionary of Archaic and Provincial Words, Obsolete Phrases, Proverbs, and Ancient Customs, from the Reign of Edward I., by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, F.R.S., F.S.A., &c. 2 vols. 8vo. containing upwards of 1000 pages, closely printed in double columns, cloth, a new and cheaper edition, 15s

It contains above 50,000 words (embodying all the known scattered glossaries of the English language), forming a complete key for the reader of our old Poets, Dramatists, Theologians, and other authors, whose works abound with allusions, of which explanations are not to be found in ordinary Dictionaries and books of reference. Most of the principal Archaisms are illustrated by examples selected from early inedited MSS. and rare books, and by far the greater portion will be found to be original authorities.

A Glossary; or, Collection of Words, Phrases, Customs, Proverbs, &c., illustrating the Works of English Authors, particularly Shakespeare and his Contemporaries, by ROBERT NARES, Archdeacon of Stafford, &c., a new Edition, with considerable Additions, both of Words and Examples, by JAMES O. HALLIWELL, F.R.S., and THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., 2 thick vols. 8vo. cloth, £1. 8s

The Glossary of Archdeacon Nares is by far the best and most useful work we possess for explaining and illustrating the obsolete language and the customs and manners of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and it is quite indispensable for the readers of the literature of the Elizabethan period. The additional words and examples are distinguished from those in the original text by a † prefixed to each. The work contains between five and six thousand additional examples, the result of original research, not merely supplementary to Nares, but to all other compilations of the kind.

A Glossary of Northamptonshire Words and Phrases; with examples of their colloquial use, with illustrations, from various Authors; to which are added, the Customs of the County, by Miss A. E. BAKER, 2 vols. post 8vo. cloth, 16s (original price, £1. 4s)

"We are under great obligations to the lady, sister to the local historian of Northamptonshire, who has occupied her time in producing this very capital Glossary of Northamptonshire provincialisms."—Examiner.

Poems of Rural Life, in the Dorset Dialect, with a Dissertation and Glossary, by the Rev. W. M. BARNES, B.D., second edition, enlarged and corrected, royal 12mo. cloth, 10s

Hwomely Rhymes; a Second Collection of Poems in the Dorset Dialect, by the Rev. W. BARNES, royal 12mo. cloth, 5s 1859

"The author is a genuine poet, and it is delightful to catch the pure breath of song in verses which assert themselves only as the modest vehicle of rare words and Saxon inflections. We have no intention of setting up the Dorset patois against the more extended provincialism of Scotland, still less of comparing the Dorsetshire poet with the Scotch; yet we feel sure that these poems would have delighted the heart of Burns, that many of them are not unworthy of him, and that (at any rate) his best productions cannot express a more cordial sympathy with external nature, or a more loving interest in human joys and sorrows."—Literary Gazette.

Dialect of South Lancashire; or, Tim Bobbin's Tummus and Meary; revised and corrected, with his Rhymes, and an enlarged Glossary of Words and Phrases, chiefly used by the Rural Population of the Manufacturing Districts of South Lancashire, by SAMUEL BAMFORD, 12mo. second edition, cloth, 3s 6d

Barnes (Rev. W.) Notes on Ancient Britain and the Britons, fcap. 8vo. cloth, 3s

"A little book in exactly inverse proportion to its great merit; its contents might have been amplified into a huge octavo. As it is, it is an invaluable manual; and to any thoughtful individual, disposed to the preparation of a series of lectures on our early history, it would be a difficult task to point out a more suggestive book in the English tongue."—Manchester Advertiser.

Views of Labour and Gold, by the Rev. W. BARNES, B.D., Author of "Poems in the Dorset Dialect," "Notes on Ancient Britain," &c. 12mo. cloth, 3s

"Mr. Barnes is a reader and a thinker. He has a third and a conspicuous merit—his style is perfectly lucid and simple. If the humblest reader of ordinary intelligence desired to follow out the process by which societies are built up and held together, he has but to betake himself to the study of Mr. Barnes's epitome. The title, 'Views of Labour and Gold,' cannot be said to indicate the scope of the Essays, which open with pictures of primitive life, and pass on, through an agreeable and diversified range of topics, to considerations of the rights, duties, and interests of Labour and Capital, and to the inquiry—what constitutes the utility, wealth, and positive well-being of a Nation? Subjects of this class are rarely handled with so firm a grasp and such light and artistic manipulations." Athenæum.

Biblia Pauperum, reproduced in facsimile from one of the Copies in the British Museum, with an Historical and Bibliographical Introduction by J. PH. BERJEAU, royal 4to. with 40 plates, half morocco, £2. 2s

As a specimen of the earliest Woodcuts, and of printed Block-books, destined to supersede the Manuscripts anterior to the valuable Invention of Guttenburg, the "Biblia Pauperum" (executed between 1420 and 1430) is well worthy the attention of the Amateur of the Fine Arts, as well as of the Bibliographer. It is printed uniformly with Mr. S. Leigh Sotheby's "Principia Typographica."
